(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

CINCINNATI (O.,) April 14.—Bishop Walden of the Methodist Episcopal Church, returning from his missionary trip around the world, was accorded a warm reception at the Methodist ministers mad assembled. Dr. Walden ministers had assembled. Dr. Walden talked of China, Japan and India, speaking mostly on Japan. During the past eleven months he has traveled 40,000 miles.

Speaking of Japan he said: "Japan is aggressive. The spirit of the western world has penetrated that country, but it has not yet had its effect on moral or social conditions. The educational system is good, but it has not yet taught men and women to live as husband and wife, instead of man and mate. The Methodist church should not attempt to Americanize the Japanese and Chinese, but to evangelize them, and the time is coming when there will be a Japanese Methodist from top 'to bottom."

Says He Sought No Audience With William-Kassala's Evacuation. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) NEW YORK, April 14.-A dispatch to the Herald from Rome says that the German Emperor has invited the Prince of Naples to the grand maneu-

Prince of Naples to the grand maneuvers at Gorlitz, next autumn. Col. von Englesbrecht, the German military attaché, had a long conference with Gen. Ricotti, the Minister of War.

Sig. Crispi says that the statement to the effect that he had asked, but had been refused, an audience with the Emperor is untrue. He never asked for the audience. The former Premier further averred that, in spite of the importance that had been attached to it in diplomatic circles, the meeting at Venice was not worthy of such attention. He also stated that the Cabinet had intended to evacuate Kassala, but that the indignation shown by the public when the Proposal was made, "caused the Ministers to change their minds." Sig. Crispi claimed that he will do nothing to bring about his own return to power.

VENEZUELA COMMISSION.

WENEZUELA COMMISSION.

Mass of Evidence on Hand—The Blue Book Supplement.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Venezuelan Commission met today after a ten days' recess, with all the members present. The time was consumed in reading reports from individual members upon the progress they were making with the particular matters of investigation entrusted to them. Scruggs, Consul for the Venezuelan government, submitted forty maps and charts, which received consideration. He also presented a few traslations of documents in the mass of evidence prepared at Caracas and transmitted to the commission through Minister Andrade.

Word has come from London to the effect that the British government is preparing a supplement to the Blue Book, containing translations of documents generally referred to in the first volume, which is expected to reach Washington soon, but saying the presentation of the Blue Book and even this supplement will come indirectly. The British government so far has falled to follow the example set by Venezuela and submit a formal case to the commission, and to accept an invitation to be represented by counsel.

He concluded: "The country is going to—. Let us show the world that we know it, and we are determined to interfere."

A PITCHFORK FOR TILLIE.

DENVER, (Colo.,) April 14.—Senator Tillman, who arrived in this city today, was tendered a reception this evening at the Brown Palace Hotel. After being welcomed by Mayor McMurray, he was presented with a pitchfork made from gold and silver taken from the mines of Colorado. Hon. E. R. Holden, who made the presentation speech, said: "Take this pitchfork back to the United States Senate and dig up the record of Senator Sherman and then dig down into the history of John G. Carlisle." This remark was received with great appiause by the large assemblage that had gathered to welcome the bimetallist from South Carolina.

Tillman concluded his address as follows: "I stand by Colorado, and all I ask is that you stand by South Carolina." After the Senator had finished there were loud calls for Hon. T. M. Patterson, who made a brief address. After the speech-making, Senator Tillman shook hands with several thousand people. His principal address will be made tomorrow night at the Broadway Theater. He will not speak at Arlington Park on Thursday as was arranged. A PITCHFORK FOR TILLIE.

For eight years Lehman had been in the employ of the West Chicago Street Railway Company and, during the greater part of that time, had been a driver on the Center-avenue line. Lehman had saved $1500. This moncy is deposited in one of the city banks. The family lived comfortably and wanted for nothing. Notwithstanding that fact, Lehman worried a great deal. He had a fear that some day his savings would be swept away and his family would become dependent on charity. He gradually grew worse, and of late when at home he talked of nothing else.

Mrs. Lehman and Henry Lehman, her young step-son, were away from home when the tragedy occurred. At 5:30 o'clock Henry Lehman returned and found that his father had killed all the children except himself. Minnie

(BY ASSOCIATED PIESS WIRE.)

CHICAGO, April 14.—Frederick A. Starr, professor of anthropology in the University of Chicago, has just returned from a three-months' trip through unexplored portions of Guatemala and Mexico. Prof. Starr's object in making the trip was to visit all the ruins in the two countries which in his trip last summer he had heard so highly praised, and to find the pigmy tribe which was supposed to live somewhere about there. The professor spent ten days among the Mixes, the fiercest tribe known, who are supposed to retain some of the cannibal instincts of their ancestors. The professor and his companion, a German political refugee, had no trouble in getting along with them. In speaking of his trip, Prof. Starr was very enthusiastic. The results, he said, had been so successful and the field so promising that he expected to return there October I. He said: "The State of Chiaps is attracting much attention at present on account of its coffee, and American capital is flowing in at a great rate. Clash Over the Bond-Inquiry Reso lution-Fortification Appropri-ation Bill Passed by the

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 14.—It was nade apparent, after a lively colloquy in the Senate today, that there was no disposition among the silver and Popu-list Senators to allow a resolution for a Senate inquiry into recent bond issues to relapse. By unanimous consent it had been set for consideration at 2:15 o'clock today, but at that time Senator Chandler was proceeding with a speech on the Dupont case, Senator Gray was waiting to follow, and Senator Cullom had an appropriation bill in reserve. This precipitated a clash, in which Senator Peffer, reinforced by Senator Wolcott and Senator Stewart, asserted with emphasis that the bond resolution sign or inadvertence. An agreement was finally reached to the effect that the bond resolution would come up immediately after Senators Chandler and

Gray concluded their speeches.

Senator Squire of Washington made an elaborate presentation of the press. ing need of coast defenses, pointing out the defenseless condition of ou great seacoast harbors.

Senator Chandler occupied most of the afternoon in support of Mr. Du pont's claim to a seat in the Senate.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS. REGULAR SUSSION. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 14.—SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—SENATE. Senator Morrill of Vermont reached the age of 86 years today and the event was referred to in the opening prayer of the chaplain, who spoke of the white-haired Senator as hale in body, clear, sound and vigorous in intellect, esteemed by his brother Senators, by his State and by the whole country. At the conclusion of the prayer Senator Morrill received congratulations from many of his associates. Shortly after the session opened Senator Morrill announced that on Thursday next he would speak on the necessity of addiwould speak on the necessity of addi-tional headquarters for the National Museum. Senator Squire of Washing-ton was then recognized for a spech on ton was then recognized coast defenses.

"National Defenses" was the subject of Senator Spuire's speech, and as a preliminary to a more detailed discussion of the topic, the Senator said in sion of the topic, the Senator said in part:

"What an absurd spectacle has the Congress of the United States presented during the present session by its persistent talk in favor of intervention by the United States in behalf of Cuba and Venezuela. How cheap is all this talk since every man who has informed himself on the subject of the national defenses knows that as a nation we are not in condition to undertake war or suffer war. We can talk loud and long and profess sympathy, pass resolutions and make believe to ourselves that we are actually taking a hand in the diplomatic affairs and international questions of great moment, but those who

lare actually taking a hand in the diplomatic affairs and international questions of great moment, but those who are not deceived by egotistical glamour and who know the facts are perfectly aware of the painful truth that this demonstration is mere talk and bluster and vapid sentiment, for at most it is a sympathy that is easily satisfied with merely verbal expressions.

"The people," he continued, "do not know how shamefully their interests are being bandled and played with by those who represent them in the halis of Congress. They do not know that the great seacoast cities, teeming with wealth, are exposed and defenseless against attack by foreign navies with vessels far outnumbering our own in strength. They do not know that our navy itself may be hopelessly crippled by the destruction of our undefended mavy yards, depots of supplies, dock yards, powder mills and arsenals. The Senator said all the evidence taken by the Committee on Coast Defenses is amentable in the extreme. The defensive works are of a character incapable of resisting modern artillery. The evidence is overwhelming that, in case of war, our whole people would suffer immeasurably.

"From such investigation as has been

tion to defend our coast and seaport cities by fleets is impracticable, for it will, he said, require expenditures running up into several hundred million dollars to do the work effectively. The navy is designed for aggressive operations. To retain its mobility and its power to make offensive return, it should not be fettered to our great cities for the purpose of protecting them. If the policy of building up the navy is to be continued at the expense of having defenseless shores, then the time has come when a change of policy must be made. There is no doubt that the money expended for coast defenses will bring better returns in protecting our country than the same amount of money appropriated for ships.

Senator Squire then argued that a glance at the historical development of our coast defenses will show that the question now under consideration does not indicate a new departure, but it is a logical step in continuation of the settled policy of this government since its foundation. He referred to the seacoast defenses of European powers, and to the reports from time to time that England is increasing her fortifications and heavy armament in both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and in this connection said:

"So it is, we are encircled as a nation

"So it is, we are encircled as a nation with a chain of foreign fortresses and coaling stations impervious to attack, while our rich seacoast cities and ports, commencing at Portland, Me., near the fortified Halifax in Canada, continuing down the coast to Portsmouth, Boston, New Bedford, Providence and Narragansett Bay, New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wilmington, Norfolk, Wilmington, N. C., Charleston, Port Royal, Savannah, Pensacola, Key West, Mobile and New Orleans and Galveston, within a few hours' rapid steaming from the fortified ports of Bermuda, Nassau, Havana and Kingston, and again on the Pacific Coast, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland, Or., and Puget Sound, with its United States drydock, coaling ports and cities, some of them within sound of British cannon at Esquimalt, all lay exposed and helpless against the attack of any foreign power that possesses a navy.

against the attack of any foreign power that possesses a navy.

"Fabulous wealth lies at the mercy of a free-booting enemy, if such shall at any time elude our small and scattered navy. Our foreign commerce and our coasting trade are alike without harbors of refuge behind land defenses. Our drydocks and ship-building yards, our arms factories and powder mills near the coast are subject to easy destruction, and our own navy is without protected bases for receiving supplies and for effecting the repairs that are constantly required. And yet we plume ourselves on our diplomacy."

In closing, the Senator hoped that the bill providing for the expenditure of $80,000,000 for seacoast defenses would be adopted without serious modification.

tion. At the close of Senator Squire's speech, Senator Chandler of New Hampshire took the floor in support of the Dupont claim. He said this was the first case in the history of the government that a Governor claimed the right to vote for a Senator. A lively colloquy occurred on taking up the resolutions for a Senate inquiry in the recent bond issues.

Senator Peffer called attention to a o'clock today. Senator Chandler de-sired to go on, and Senator Gray said he wished to follow. Senator Cullom also pointed out that appropriation bills were pressing. Senator Stewart of Nevada protested against side-track-ing the bond investigation. "It is more important to know if it is to be the policy to go on issuing bonds without limit, than it is to pass appro-priation bills," declared Senator Stew-art. "If all this money is to be raised ome way by appropriation some way by appropriation."

Senator Stewart said he would ask before long how much money was on hand to meet these appropriations. He added that if there was any disposition to crowd out this bond investigation then he would object now, even to the discourtesy of the Senator on the floor (Mr. Chandler.)

Senator Peffer said he was willing to wait until Senator Chandler finished his speech, but Senator Gray objected to an arrangement on this basis, unless he was included.

his speech, but Senator Gray objected to an arrangement on this basis, unless he was included.

Senator Morrill thereupon made a point of order that the Dupont case was a question of the highest privilege, and that a Senator speaking on it could not afford to be taken off the floor. The Vice-President promptly sustained the Senator Wolcott of Colorado intervened with the suggestion that Senators had given unanimous consent to take up the bond resolution at 2:15 o'clock, and a unanimous agreement was not open to a point of order.

Senator Peffer, in the same line, said he had never heard of a unanimous consent being broken. This bond resolution had been put off with one excuse or another until he was tired.

HOUSE. The House today passed, without amendment, the Fortification Appropriation Bill, carrying appropriations involving an expenditure of $11,384,613. The appropriations for fortifications, since the Endicott commission in 1886 reported its plan for the defense of twenty-seven scaports at an approximate cost of $100,000,000, have averaged something over $2,000,000 annually. During the debate today there was a number of references to our foreign complications and the necessity of preparing for any possible emergency. Only one voice was raised against the passage of the bill. Mr. Berry of Kentucky thought it would be wisdom to build ships capable of coping with the most powerful battleships of other nations, rather than erect fixed fortifications on our seacoasts.

Mr. Bingham of Pennsylvania presented the conference report on the cations on our seacoasts.

Mr. Bingham of Pennsylvania presented the conference report on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation Bill and explained, with reference to the paragraphs to abolish the free system in the case of marshals, attorneys and United States commissioners, that the whole question had been referred to a joint committee of the Judiciary Committees of the two houses, who were to consult with the Attorney-General and report to the Conference Committee. The Senate, he said, had added $229,000 to the House bill, of which $59,000 had been disposed of by the House agreeing to $39,000, the Senate yielding the balance. About $189,000 still remained in dispute. Of that amount $67,000 was for the increase of the salary list of the Senate employés, and as to this last he predicted the House would have to yield. The record showed that the average cost of employés to each member of the House, will be $939, while that of each member of the Senate was ¼483. Justice to the House, he said, required that these facts should be made notorious.

Mr. Dockery of Missouri was in the same line. He thought it but fair that the House should understand that the

After some further remarks by Messrs, Sayers of Texas, Baker of New Hampshire and Hemingway of Indiana, the general debate was closed with a brief speech by Mr. Cannon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who culogized the bill as the best fortifications bill presented to the House in twenty-five years. He did not think there was danger of war in this century, at least, but it was right and proper that we should at all times be prepared for an emergency. The work should go on. The mere making of these appropriations and our acknowledged ability to make the forgings of the great guns to be set up in defense of our great seacoast cities would strengthen the executive in the present diplomatic complications.

peting for government patronage wers named in the resolution, and no terms were suggested.

It has developed in the course of discussions over the cable subject that J. P. Morgan is, with James L. Scrymser, the chief stockholder in the Padific Cable Company of New York. Scrymser is president of the cable company which operates the cable to Cuba and the West Indies under an exclusive concession granted by Congress several years ago. Prominent among the stockholders of the other company are Col. Spalding of Honolulu. Abram S. Hewitt, D. Ogden Mills, Frederick D. Grant, Gen. Swayne of New York and J. J. Hill of St. Paul.

The Scrymser company expects to make its Hawaiin landing at Pearl Island Harbor, where the United States has a naval station, through an arrangement with the Hawaiian government. The personnel of the two companies insures their ability to carry out any contract they may enter into with the United States and the committee, members of it say, would be well satisfied with either, if the other was not in the field. Considerable interest is taken in the progress of negotiations by the Hawaiian legation, and its representative is present at all of the hearings. Efforts have been made in New York for a compromise betwen the two companies, but without success up to the present time.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, April 14.—(Special Dispatch.) A statement was made a day or two ago that a most important diplomatic communication had been forwarded by President Cleveland to Spain concerning the Cuban trouble. It was in effect that Secretary Olney had sent to Minister Taylor at Madrid cable instructions to offer to the Spanish government the good offices of the United States to bring to an end the struggle now in progress in Cuba. To-day a denial that any such communication had been sent was authorized by an official of the administration and the denial was sent out by the press associations. Tonight it is learned from a source beyond question that cer-tain representations have been made by President Cleveland to Spain, but not through Minister Taylor,

A communication, couched in the most careful and conservative manner, was forwarded to the Spanish government through Minister de Lome, the representative of Spain in Washington, It was deemed desirable that the fact that such representations had been made to the Spanish government should be kept quiet on both sides of the Atlantic, hence the denial that was made today. The communication, while it is of an ultra-pacific character, and contains nothing that Spain can justly take offense to, contains one clause that is significant. It is a request for a reply as early as possible, and the request is put in such terms as to suggest an unpleasant alternative, if it should not be compiled with.

The fact that President Cleveland has offered the good offices of his country in a settlement of the Cuban war will cause much surprise here in Washcomes known. It has not been believed that he would take any action in the Cuban matter at present, and the decided representa-tions made in the communication will arouse new interest in the Cuban ques

Fitzhugh Lee as Consul-General were received with marked favor. Advices had already reached here from good authority in the United States on the subject. The general bellef in official circles is that the appointment of so distinguished a soldier means more than the filling of a consulate. It has been understood at Havana that President Cleveland has considered the subject of a commission, but that he has not publicly mentioned the matter, the understanding being that, regardless of how the Spanish government might view the subject, it would not be agreeable to the Spanish government might view the subject, it would not be agreeable to the Spanish people.

President Cleveland has avoided the unpleasant question in a successful and diplomatic manner by selecting a brilliant and honorable soldier, such as Lee is known to be, and sending him to Havana under circumstances that cannot offend public sensibilities.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE) CAPE TOWN, April 14.-(By South frican Cable.) News has been received here that the natives are pre-paring to rise along the Transvaal bor-der. A rising in Northern Transvaal itself is also reported to be imminent. There is something of a panic manifest among the burghers, who have ap-pealed for arms with which to protect themselves. The threatened spread of the disturbances along the Transvaal border makes the situation at Buluwayo and in Matabeleland much more wayo and in Matabeleland much more serious. The authorities felt that Bulu-wayo was reasonably safe, if the food supply should hold out, but the danger has been that the Matabeles would stop the wagon-roads through the hills and has been that the Matabeles would stop the wagon-roads through the hills and to the south, and thus prevent supplies from getting through form Mafeking. FORTIFYING AS THEY GO. NEW YORK, April 14.—A dispatch to the Herald form Wady Halfa says that Saras and Akasheh have been strongly garrisoned. The railway between these points is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Four miles of rails have already been laid, and the track have already been laid, and the track will be completed along the course laid down in 1884, in order to pass the cataracts. For the guarding of the railway strong posts have been established on the Nile at Semneh, Wady Ambigol, Tangur and Sonki. Each of these posts has been supplied with a contingent to guard the point opposite to it on the line as it is laid, in order to prevent the dervishes from destroying the works.

The dervishes at Suarda, who number 3000, have advanced their posts to Mograkeh, distant fifteen miles from Akasheh, the main body of the dervishes still remaining at Dongola. The opinion is held at Egyptian head-quarters that commissariat difficulties will prevent the dervishes from making any formidable advance north of Suarda. The prestige of Osman Digna is reported to be on the wane, and is likely to be still further compromised by his defeat by friendly Arabs near Tamatal. Deserters from his forces are coming into Suakim. It appears highly probable that there will be more fighting in the immediate future.

Creditable authorities predict that the ruling of the mixed tribunal which has postponed for a fortnight the matter of the advance of £500,000 for the Dongola expedition will be in favor of the commissioners of the "Calsse de la Dette."

But there was additional interest in the racing today, as it was the occa-sion of the debut of Pierre Lorillard's string of American horses, his entries today being Anisette, King of Bohemia and Glaring. Not one of Croker's horses have reached here, although he has Albany and Red Banner entered for the Ashley plate, and Sir Excess for the Braham plate, (tomorrow,) etc. Mr. Lorillard, during the meeting, may eon Wing for the two-year-old plate

Mr. Lorillard, during the meeting, may also run Magic or Sandia for the Double Trial plate; Lame Cock or Pigeon Wing for the two-year-old plate, and Astolpha in the Ashley plate, and besides Foxhall Keene has Faustina and a brown colt entered for the Column Produce stakes. The weather was cold and stormy.

There was only the average attendance, but many prominent people were among those presnt in the Jookey Club inclosure and talked with Lord Marcus Beresford and the Rt. Hon. James Lowther, The Prince seemed to be but little interested in the sport today. Richard Croker, enveloped in a long cape mackintosh, sauntered about alone, occasionally placing a bet. Talking over the situation with a representative of the Associated Press, Croker said: "I have no horses entered today, and I am here merely as a spectator. My horses are all in good condition, but I see it takes a long time to acclimate them. I hope, however, to make a record this summer. I find it different here from what' we do in America. Regarding the stable here, a trainer's word is law. I am not allowed to interfere and I do not know much about my own horses. Americus is in good trim, and I have great hopes of him."

Croker was asked regarding the chances of Montauk for the Derby. The New Yorker smiled in reply and said: "We shall do our best."

The trainer who has charge of Pierre Lorillard's horses said: "All Mr. Lorillard's horses and horse competed was the Victors' plate handicap, in which Lorillard's King of Bohemia was not placed. J. Newton's gelding Foreburn, was first, with F. Wishard's Helen Nichols second, and William Redfern's Confessional third. In the race for the thirty-eight Newmarket Blennial stakes of twenty-five sovereigns each for starters with 500 sovereigns added, for three-year-olds, there were four starters. Leopold Rothschild's Galeaszo won, Sir J. Blunded Maple's Palaver second, the Duke of Westminster's Attainment third. Lori Sauterelle third.

The last race of the day was for the Ashley Plate, 200 sovereigns, for 2-year-olds. It was won by Charles Day Rose's Melfitana, M. R. Lebaudy's Perseal second, and Barney Barnaso's Brown filly, by Galop, third. Croker's Albany and Red Banner and Lorillard's Astolpha had been entered, but were scratched.

Helen Nichols, who ran second in the Visitors' stake, is an American horse, formerly owned by McCafferty, who sold out his stable last year to Duke and Wishard.

A GREAT MEETING.

Coming Races of the New Louisville Jockey Club. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

CEY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) April 14.—Secretary Price yesterday issued the book programme for the spring meeting of the new Louisville Jockey Club. Nearly $50,000 will be distributed during the twelve days beginning on Derby day, May 6. Ten stakes, including the Kentucky Derby, will be run while the overnight purses will be $400 each and the handleaps $500 each.

From present indications the meeting will be the greatest one ever held in Kentucky. All the crack horses are engaged in the stakes, including Ben Brush, Prince Lief, Ramiro, First Mate, Semper Ego, Berclair, Nimrod, Ben Eder, Lady Inez, Faraday, Rudolph, Ida Pickwick and several hundred others. There are nearly six hundred horses on the ground at Churchill Downs, and by the time the saddling bell rings there will be about eight hundred. Secretary Price has succeeded in getting cheap rates from all the railroads.

Ben Brush is expected to reach here in a few days and will start in the Derby. Local trainers expect to best him, however, First Mate and Ulysses showing unusually good work in their trials at the track here. From present indications at least twelve, and probably fifteen, entries will go to the post.

E. Bacon, the English champion and holder of the English mile record, 4m. 17s... and Conneff turned the letter over to the New York Athletic Club, of which he is a member. The Athletic Committee of the club took the matter in hand. A formal challenge was forwarded to Bredin by Barlow S. Weeks, captain of the New York Athletic Club, and a race at a half-mile was also proposed by Bredin and C. H. Kilpatrick. The challenges will be accepted, and there is little doubt that other events will be arranged, as the London Athletic Club was none too well pleased over their disastrous defeat of last year. Neither Bredin nor Bacon visited this country last fall, and they will be cordially welcomed. The following letter has been forwarded to Mr. Bredin by B. S. Weeks, captain of the New York Athletic Club:

"To E. C. Bredin, London: Our Athletic Committee has forwarded you a formal challenge on behalf of T. P. Conneff for a match race with F. E. Bacon. Should the match be arranged, it has occurred to me that you would be glad also to arrange a match between you and C. H. Kilpatrick for the half-mile. There have also been some rumors over here that both Mr. Shaw and Mr. Bradley would be glad to meet tagain Messrs. Chase and Wefers of this club. We would willingly arrange matches for them also.

It is alleged that the Bay City Ciub's representatives, on the sixth and seventh relays, changed the packet outside the proper lines. It is claimed by the riders that they changed the packet within the bounds, and their statement is upheld by two of the judges, who were standing near the flag, but the referee claims otherwise, and the racing committee has decided with him. This decision gives the cup to the Garden City Cyclers, who finished second on the race. The Bay City Wheelmen will protest against the decision of the board.

last night. Then Fred Conners. the lover in the case, went to her rescue and succeeded in bringing in the girl, unconscious, but still alive, to the shore. Conners, who is but a boy, carried the fainting girl to the life-saving station. There Capt. Morton and his wife applied restoratives, and after a time succeeded in bringing back animation to Miss Lind's limp form. The patrol wagon was summoned and the girl and her boy lover were brought to the City Prison, where Miss Lind was put in charge of the matron.

"I didn't want to live without Fred," said Miss Lind from the cot in the woman's department at the prison. Her girlish face was very serious, and she seemed to feel that she had solved the problem of life and that its answer was "Fred."

"My mother has made my life unhappy, nagging at me because she wanted me to give him up. I could stand it as long as Fred was true to me, but when he told me that it would only cause trouble for him to go with me any more, and that he was not going to have anything more to do with me, I made up my mind that I might as well die. That's all," she said. "I decided last week to kill myself, and I told some of the girls in the snop where I was learning dressmaking that I was going to commit suicide."

"Well, how was it that you did not do so?" was asked.

"I," and a wan smile stole over the face, "I saw Fred and he promised not to give me up."

Then she told how the mother had

Then she told how the mother had become violent because she had gone out with Conners, and the young man had decided that he had better withdraw from the contest for good. This made her desperate.

"I asked him to come out to the beach with me this morning," said Hilda. "We got there about 8 o'clock and walked up and down on the sands. I tried to get him to promise not to give me up, but he wouldn't. We were out there all day and when evening came on and Fred still said he thought it was better that he shouldn't have anything to do with me, I just decided to end it all. I didn't say anything to him, but just ran out to the water, then a big wave hit me and I was carried off my feet. I struggled awhile in the water and then I didn't know any more."

more."
Mrs. Lind reproached the girl for her act. She explained that her objection to Connors was that he was only a boy, while Hilda was only 16 and not old enough to keep company with anybody yet. To this the girl answered bitterly, claiming that the mother had tried to make her endure the companionship of horrid old men whom she didn't like and whom she would have nothing to do with.

potter lot on Twelfth street, near Mission, early this morning.

The boy saw the old valise, picked it up and found it was heavy. He gave it a toss or two in the air, catching it in his hands as it came down. On the second toss a faint cry issued from the valise and the boy opened it. He was almost too frightened to scream at what he saw. There was a live, cryling infant, wrapped in a dirty hand towel. Switt laid the child carefully on the ground and then ran screaming down the street.

Swift laid the child carefully on the ground and then ran screaming down the street.

Passers-by saw the boy running and heard him shouting "A baby! a baby!" Policeman Connolly stopped the lad and learned of the strange find. The officer took the baby to the Receiving Haspital. Dr. Well made an examination of the infant and came to the conclusion that the little fellow had been born only a few hours before he was found. Whoever attended the mother was evidently ignorant or careless. The heel of one of the baby's feet was frost-bitten. The baby, notwithstanding his unceremonious introduction to the world, was lusty and rather pretty. Later in the afternoon the child was removed to the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum.

Dr. Well notified the police, and Detective Byram was instructed to find, if possible, the inhuman mother who turned out her offspring in such a heartless manner. He spent several hours in the search, but gave up his task later. A further effort will be made by watch-ing the registry of births, but the con-dicated that no physician had been called in to attend the mother who, per-haps, wished to thus dispose of the evi-dence of her shame.

On one side of this region are the productive mines of Amador, such as the Argonaut and the Kennedy, and on the other the far-famed Utica, while still farther to the south and east are the rich Rawhide and other prosperous Tuolumne-county properties. While they have gone ahead and been sunk to a depth of from nine hundred to twenty-two hundred feet, the intervening country, apparently equally rich in gold, has only been scratched on the surface. The mines and claims in this territory are mostly cropping workings, the shafts in no case extending below a depth of 200 feet; yet to the extent to which they are worked the ore runs $5, $6, $7 and $8 to the ton.

It is a well-known fact that on the mother lode the richest ore lies at a great depth, and it is for the purpose of development of their arid region by the use of electric power that the California Exploration Company has been formed. In it are interested European. New York and San Francisco capital to a large extent. The company has been formed with a capital stock of $2,000,000 and a reserve of $1,000,000.

Burglar Sanborn Expresses Regret at His Bad Luck. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—It is somewhat difficult to determine the reasons that induced William Sanborn to climb to the roof of Mrs. Brown's boarding-house Sunday morning, but his bitterest enemy would not hazard a doubt of his present sorrow and remorse at having done so. After having fallen fifty feet into a pile of miscellaneous junk, his physical condition is such as makes him acutely conscious of the fact that he is alive. Added to this is the dread engendered by the thought that he must appear in court to answer to a charge of attempted burglary.

"It's hard luck" he explained "but thought that he must appear in court to answer to a charge of attempted burglary.

"It's hard luck," he explained, "but that's what a fellow gets for being a Jonah. That's straight," he continued, as if his listener were inclined to doubt the truth of his assertion. "There's been a hoodoo on me for a year, and this proves it. I'm the picture of bad luck, I.am, 'cause if I wasn't I'd broken my neck when I fell. As it is, I'm as sore as a soft corn, and I can console myself with the thought that the cops will rake up a prior conviction against me, and do their best to send me across the bay for the balance of my life."

It is certain that Sanborn's past life will not tend to lessen the degree of present suspicion, or aid him in his attempt to convince a police judge that his presence on the roof of the Brown mansion was due entirely to the vagaries of mind engendered by Chinatown gin.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—The expected sensation in the Marceau divorce suit is still in abeyance. A battle was expected to take place yesterday over the custody of the child, but it did not materialize. Instead, both husband and wife entered into a stipulation by which the custody of the child was given to a third party.

The agreement of husband and wife applies only to the custody of the child pending the suit. All efforts to reach an agreement as to the divorce have failed, and the case will now have to be tried. Col. Marceau will stand by his complaint charging infidelity, and his wife her cross complaint charging crueity. The child is to remain in oharge of a nurse at the children's hospital until further orders of the court.

(Escondido Times:) The boring for oll in this valley is an enterprise that should be encounaged. We believe that there is oil in this region, and as soon as the necessary capital is secured the work of prospecting or boring for the same will be vigorously prosecuted.

(Santa Barbara Independent:) Mr. Culver will this season plant on the Moore ranch at Goleta 3100 rooted olive trees, and will add 500 more to the 700 learner than the season plant of the 700 learner than 100 le olg truit producers of the county.

(Phoenix, Ariz., Republican:) Shearing is now in full blast on the winter ranges on the northern side of the Salt River Valley, where thousands of sheep are now being held. Five carloads of wool left yesterday over the Santa Fé for Galveston, whence they will be shinned by steamboat to northern points.

(Arroyo Grande Oracle:) The English syndicate which has purchased the Santa Margarita rancho intends to erect a big beet-sugar factory on the premises—one about the capacity of Chino. Now is the time to work on the Pozo road, which, when completed, will make this the coast outlet for that section.

(Colton Chronicle:) Southern California's manufactures are in her sun-that section.

(Colton Chronicle:) Southern California's manufactures are in her sunshine. Every olive and orange and walnut is a manufactured produce—made by natural processes, it is true; but none the less valuable on that account, and besides, it is a species of manufacture that is subject to no patent right and no strike.

(Ventura Democrat:) We have tested a sample of meal made from Palestine corn, furnished us by W. T. Sherwood of the Ojal Valley. The bread tastes very like that made from our common Indian corn, and we believe it wholesome as well as palatable. The corn grows luxuriant, matures in a comparatively short time, and is said to make excellent stock feed.

(Guadalupe Standard:) The future prospects for this place are brightening with each succeeding month. Notable improvements in and around town have been commenced which will tend to draw an intelligent people to our section. Our new .school building, street lights, new sidewalks and graveled streets place the town in advance of any from San José to Santa Barbara.

(Otay Press.) The Otay Mesa has or any from San Jose to Santa Barbara.

(Otay Press:) The Otay Mesa has proved to be peculiarly adapted to the production of the olive, being free from scale, bearing and thriving well without irrigation, and a manifest confidence in the adaptability of this section for the raising of olives is being shown by the planting of about two thousand trees on the mesa this season. There seems to be an increasing demand for the oil and pickles of this adapted product of the State, and eastern people are beginning to acquire a taste for pickled olives that will rapidly increase the sale from now on. Meantime the sun shines and let us make hay.

for pickled olives that will rapidly increase the sale from now on. Meantime the sun shines and let us make hay.

(Santa Paula Chronicle:) Some portions of California can raise oranges and lemons but nothing else very successfully, while other sections produce deciduous fruits but citrus fruits do not do well. Here in Ventura county we grow not only oranges and lemons to perfection, but apricots, pears, peaches, apples, walnuts, corn, barley and beans. We ship one million dollars' worth of beans annually. Then we have the richest and most prolific oil wells in the State. In the not distant future Ventura will be recognized as the most prosperous country in California. When the country is prosperous then our towns will be also.

(Easondido Times:) Hon. Mr. Bennette, a prominent glass-cutter of Chicago, was here last week looking over the valley, and, after a thorough inspection of the many sand deposits on the grant, says he has found no sand along this coast or, indeed, in this entire region, so suitable for the manufacture of glass. This hitherto unknown advantage, which is among the unbounded resources of San Marcos, is accepted with not a few feelings of gratification and pride. So now, with the brilliant prospects for the discovery of oil, a boom—a perpetual one—is assured. Verily San Marcos is in the possession of all advantageous things given out in the make-up of the world. (Chino Champion:) At the sugar factory improvements are going on steadily, and preparations are being made for the biggest campaign this year in the history of the factory. The battery of boilers at the south end of the boiler-house. This makes an aggregate of 3000 horse power in the twelve boilers—a powerful battery. The chemical laboratory is being enlarged by the addition of a second story and an extension to the east side of the main building. All the machinery in the building is being gradually overhauled, cleaned, repaired and put in first-class condition for this season's-run. A large new brick office building will be erected t conduct a coöperative olive-growing, pickling and oil-making business. When the olive trees in Sierra Madre colony are in full bearing the output of olives and oil will assume gigantic proportions, and that this may be handled profitably and expeditiously the cooperative plan will be adopted.

Conquering a Bronco.

(Harper's Magazine:) It is related of prominent citizen of Arizona that he once met a prominent citizen of Mon-tana on the neutral ground of Colo-rado. The subject of bucking horses coming up, the prominent citizen of Arizona said:

"We have some very skillful riders have some very skillful riders down in my country. This, of course, shows out particularly when they are breaking wild broncos to ride. When an infuriated mustang, saddled for the an inturiated mustang, saddled for the first time, and rearing and bucking with all the terrific energy of his savage nature, looks up out of the tail of his eye and watches his rider calmly roll and light a cigarette, it has an excellent effect on him, and usually he cools down, realizing the hopelessness of his task."

Then spoke the prominent citizen of Montane.

Montana:

"That will do very well, I dare say, for the comparatively mild and inoffensive horses of your southern latitude, but it has been found to have no influence whatever on our fierce and vicious beasts. But when one of our cowboys mounts a bronce for the first with mug, hot water and bay rum in little basket on his arm. Ah, it's all

In knowing how, this subjugating a Montana bronco!"

Then the meeting of prominent citizens adjourned

Wardrobe of a Ballot Girl.

(New York World:) A ballet girls outfit at the Metropolitan Operahouse costs an even $11. Of this $8 goes for a pair of silk tights, $2 for a pair of ballet slippers, and $1 for enough tarlatan to make a practice skirt. At rehearsals she may wear any old bodice that suits her, and such costumes as are required for a performance are furnished by the management. The ballet slippers may be had of either of two local manufacturers, or may be imported. A fairly good pair will last about three months. The soles will hold out that long, but the uppers are covered and recovered a number of times. The covering is always of white or pink satin. By the time the soles are worn out the slippers have been covered probably six or seven times. These slippers can be bought in London for about 50 cents a pair. Most English girls who come here to dance, bring a supply with them. One enterprising miss now dancing has her slippers sent to her by mail, wrapped up in a bundle of newspapers. The tights found by the girls are pink or flesh color. If the opera calls for any other color the management furnishes them. The practice skirts are used only at the daily rehearsals. In construction they are simple. A piece of from twelve to fifteen yards of tarlatan is made into two skirts, one over the other. They are simply gathered in a yoke and scalloped at the edge. There is nothing showy about them. They are meant for hard work, and are very business-like looking affairs. A practice skirt will last about four weeks. Wardrobe of a Ballot Girl.

Another Black Eye.

(Toledo Blade:) Operations of the treasury in the month just ended are another black eye for the Wilson law. It has added to the enormous deficit which it has already piled up, and the deficiency now amounts to over $75,000, o00, against a surplus of $24,000,000 in the corresponding history of the McKinley law. In every feature the new law has been disappointing.

Reducing the rates of duty on many articles on the assumption that this rethe corresponding period as to customs receipts.

Adding largely to the number of articles on the free list, it has brought into the country less goods free of duty than did the McKinley law in a like period of its history.

Increasing taxes on spirits over 20 per cent, its internal revenue receipts have fallen many millions below those of the corresponding period of the McKinley law.

Promising sufficient revenue to meet the running expenses and create a treasury surplus, it has fallen $75,000,000 short of the current expenditures, while the McKinley law in a corresponding period of its history created a surplus of nearly one-third that sum.

period of its history created a surplus of nearly one-third that sum.

Purporting to protect the interests of the agricultural community its enactment has been followed by an enormous increase in the importation of agricultural articles and a falling off in the exports of farm products.

Promising to open the doors of foreign countries to native productions it has given smaller exports to agricultural staples and of general merchandise than in any year of the present decade, under either the McKinley tariff or that which immediately preceded it. The exports of agricultural products in the first full calendar year of the new law were $545,714,375, while under the McKinley law the agricultural products averaged $100,000,000 a year greater.

Good Crops.

(Pomona, Cal., Beacon:) "How are your crops in this part of the country?" asked the newly-arrived Methodist-parson of a substantial-looking citizen of Kentucky. "Pretty good as a rule," replied the latter. "Last year we raised enough corn hereabouts to make 10,000 barrels of whisky in this town, besides a hull lot that was wasted making bread."

It takes only three nights in a sleeping-car rom Los Angeles to Chicago on the Santa Fé route. This for both first and second-class tickets on the Overland Express. The best ime on any competing line takes five nights, and some of them longer. Don't waste your

RIPANS TABULES

Mrs. E. A. Meyer, of No. 2131 Morgan street, St. Louis, Mo., and whose husband, Ed Meyer, is whose husband, Ed Meyer, is employed by the McKinney Bakery Company, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been suffering for years with indigestion, and about six months ago I was told by a triend, Mrs. Lewis, to try Ripans Tabules. I went to the Olympic Drug Store, kept by Mr. Mastbrook, and got them there. I used them as directed, and have not been troubled with indigestion since. Have never been as well as I am at present since I was fourteen years of age. I will never hesitate to recommend them to any one suffering as I have been. I think I would be dead before this if it was not for Ripans Tabules."

M'KINLEY CLUB

an Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Odd

The Com-mittee on Public Meetings reported the great success the club had met with in its initial meeting at Music Hall last Friday evening, and a vote of thanks was tendered to M. T. Allen, Esq., and Gen. A. B. Campbell for the kindness rendered by them to the club kindness rendered by them to the club and the fine addresses delivered by them, the secretary being instructed to convey the same in writing to them. A spirited discussion was participated in by several members, all for the good of the club, and a strengthening of the sentiment that "our choice" will be the nominee of the people and the G.O.P.

The Committee on Public Speaking and Entertainment will see that good speakers will be present at the next meeting, on Tuesday, April 21, and all members, as well as all good Republicans, are urged and invited to be present. A glee club is now being organized, and will soon make their bow before the club, surcharged with music appropriate to the canvass in which the club has embarked.

THE M'KEE INQUEST. The Crew of the Car Exonerated

From All Biame.

The Coroner's jury has decided the men who were in charge of the electric car which ran down Rev. Joseph McKee were not to blame for the aged minister's death. An inquest was held at Kregelo & Bresee's yesterday morning.

at Kregelo & Bresee's yesterday morning.

Mr. Curtis, the son-in-law of the deceased, testified as to his age, habits, etc. Mr. Curtis said Mr. McKee was hard of hearing.

George A. Shepard, the motorman of electric car No. 158 of the Grand-avenue line, the car which knocked down the old man, was put upon the stand. Shepard said he had been a gripman and motorman for six years. The day of the accident he was going south on Broadway toward Fourth. As he approached the corner he slowed up, as the custom is, because the Pico Heights cars have the right-of-way. Mr. McKee came walking across the street, gazing up at the decorations on the Chamber of Commerce building. The motorman testified that he put on the reverse brake and yelled to the old man as loudly as he could. A number of other people yelled also, but Mr. McKee seemed confused and dazed. The car struck him and rolled him under the car till he reached the fender. The fender pushed him along the track a short distance. Shepard stopped the car as soon as he could and backed away. The motorman declared that during the whole time he kept his bell ringing violently.

George A. Cortelyou, a real estate agent whose office is at No. 404 South Broadway, was another eye-witness of the accident. He testified that there was a great deal of shouting for Mr. McKee to get out of the way. The old man heard the yells, turned half around, hesitated a moment and then fell under the shock of the moving car.

The testimony of John Bloeser, A. P. Thompson and the other witnesses was much to the same effect, and all illustrated by a map of the corner.

After all the testimony was in, the jury agreed on a verdict that Joseph McKee' came to his death "by being struck by an electric car, the property of the Los Angeles Railway Company, and we, the jury, find the crew did all in their power to avoid the accident, and we hereby exonerate them from all blame."

SALVATION WILL BOOM

Expected Arrival of Commissioner

Mrs. Booth-Tucker.
The local Salvationists are making great preparations for the arrival of Mrs. Booth-Tucker, the daughter of Gen. Booth, and wife of Commissioner Booth-Tucker, who was sent over here to persuade Ballington Booth to return to the fold. Mrs. Booth-Tucker will be to persuade Ballington Booth to return to the fold. Mrs. Booth-Tucker will be accompanied by Maj. Melan, the private secretary of Gen. Booth; Maj. Alice Lewis, the Vassar graduate who espoused the cause of the Salvation Army, and Brig. Keppel, who has charge of the army in California, Wyoming, Utah and the Hawaiian Islands. On Saturday evening, April 18, there will be a great meeting in Music Hall. The local commander, Capt. James Thomas, has arranged a great praise service for that evening, but the chief feature will be the address by Mrs. Booth-Tucker. On Sunday morning another meeting will be held at Illinois Hall. In the afternoon the First Congregational Church will be the place where services will be held, and in the evening Mrs. Booth-Tucker will speak again in Illinois Hall. On Monday, there will be a conference all day in one of the halls' or the leading churches, when the subject of the late schism will be brought up and fully discussed.

Memhbers of the army from all over Southern California and Arizona will attend this celebration. Between 700 and 800 soldiers are expected in the city to attend the meetings. There are now nearly 300 Salvationists in Los Angeles alone, and on its list of auxiliary members, which is very large, are the names of some of the people most prominent in the city in charitable work of all kinds.

IN A COOK STOVE.

Scheme Whereby Crude Oil Can Be Used in the Kitchen. The revolution in the use of fuel for engines and motive power of every sort, which the introduction of crude oil in the market has wrought, promises to extend still further and include the dothe market has wrought, promises to extend still further and include the domain of the kitchen, as well as that of the manufactory. Oil has been used by the housekeepers in eastern States with excellent results, but thus far has not obtained much favor in Southern California for this purpose, the benefits derived from the cheapness and abundance of the crude oil having been monopolized by concerns who utilize the stuff for motive power in operating engines, etc. Efforts are now being made and experiments are in progress by those who have handled eastern oil for this purpose, to test the merits of the California product in the same field. The estimate is made that oil at $1.50 a barrel is equal to soft coal at $3.50 a ton. As coal of this sort is worth about $9$ in the open market, the saving that might be effected to the housekeeper by the use of crude oil in the cookstove is easily apparent.

Catholic Saints.

A notable addition to the exhibit of the Pasadena Loan Association at the Chamber of Commerce was made yesterday. Six wax figures, dressed to correspond accurately with the authentic historical account of Catholic saints, were placed with the relics from San Fernando Mission. They were made by Jesus Vargas de Machuca, a Mexican artisan of rare ability and the professional worker in wax of this city. The figures represent San Bernardino, patron of San Bernardino county, a blue friar of the Franciscan order; King Ferdinand of Spain, warrior and saint; Santa Catalina (St. Catherine of Alexander) virgin and martyr, patron of the island of Santa Catalina; San Clemente, pope and martyr, patron of San Clemente, pope and martyr, patron of San Pedro, and Santa Ana, patroness of the river and lown of that name. The figures attracted unusual attention on account of their historical associations and the skill exercised in their production.

FOR A FREE HARBOR.

A petition in favor of a free deepwater harbor at San Pedro, the site indorsed by the United States engineers, is at the Times office for signa-tures. Friends of a free harbor site are invited to call and sign the pe

SENATOR WHITE'S OPPORTUNITY.

The suggestions made by some per sons among us that Senator White might, could or would indorse the ignominious terms offered by Mr. Huntington to the people of Los Angeles, in consideration of their surrendering to him the free harbor, are little less than insulting. Senator White has placed himself on record, openly and repeatedly, as a friend of the people's site at San Pedro. The Times has always maintained that Senator White could be depended upon to do all that lies in his power as soon as the proper time arrived. That time is now close at hand. On Friday next the Senate Committee on Commerce will give a hearing on the San Pedro and Santa Monica harbor questions. That Senator White not only fully understands the facts in the case, but is also prepared to maintain the people's side of the question, is shown by the interview telegraphed to the San Francisco Examiner and published in The Times of Monday, in which Mr. White speaks out in words that leave no possible loophole for misunderstanding.

Senator White has just now an exceptional opportunity to earn the lasting and enthusiastic gratitude of the neonle of Los Angeles and Southern California. There never was a public question brought before the people of this section that has aroused so much general interest as this. The insidious and par sistent efforts of a railroad corporation to defeat the will of our people and to throttle our reasonable ambition for an extended commerce—efforts extending over a term of years-have aroused a spirit of just indignation among the dependent citizens of Southern California that is with difficulty kept within | no one could reasonably object. There bounds. Once more we have been deceived and cajoled. We have been deceived by the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, we have been deceived by our representative in the Lower House, and we now look to our the proper time. Senator as the last hope that remains! to us for this year.

If Senator White will make such as effort at Washington in behalf of his constituents as he well knows how to make—as we have frequently heard him for it should be remembered and demake in our halls of justice—there is nothing that our citizens will conside too good for him.

PACIFIC RAILROAD DEBTS.

The new bill for the settlement of the Pacific railroad debts, now before Congress, grants an extension of fifty years for the payment of the debts, principal and accrued interest, to be funded at 2 per cent. interest. Payyear are to be made during the first ten years, $500,000 per year during the econd ten years, and $750,000 per year thereafter until the debt is paid.

It is surprising, in the face of the widespread protestations of the people against this funding of these debts, that any committee in either house should report a bill for that purpose. Yet at the recent meeting of the House attee on Pacific Railroads, six of the government site—the people's site the eight members present voted to re-port the bill to the House, only two voting against it. The six affirmative otes were cast by Powers of Vermon an (Rep.); Wright of Massachu ick of New York (Rep.); Faris of In-(Rep.); and Patterson of Tennes-am.) The two negative votes were by Hubbard of Missouri (Rep.); all of Texas (Dem.) Mr. Johnson of California—to-wit: Grove L. CALIFORNIA AND THE PRESIDENCY

In the San Francisco Call of Saturday last, Senator Perkins, at the request of a Washington reporter, ma of California in the Presidential con-test, his remarks being called up by statement published in a Washington paper that Mr. Perkins was an active ossibility for the position of Vice President. Mr. Perkins said he did not believe that the Republican Nadidate for the Vice-Presidency from any State west of the Missourl River. He considered that the best plan wa to take a strong candidate for President from the middle west and to se lect the second name from New York or New England.

When asked whether California was is usual, "to be left out of the machin ery of government," Mr. Perkins ex-Kyle of Mississippi (Dem.); Harrison of pressed the belief that this State can, if it chooses, make its influence felt as never before on such an occasion—that California is in a position to secure a Cabinet officer. Senator Perkins went

It is difficult to understand how delegation can at the same time be unpledged, and yet act as a unit. Unless the delegates are pledged in advance there will undoubtedly be some of them who would refuse, for various reasons, personal or otherwise, to enter into any combination to support a particular candidate, however advantageous such a course might be to the State. Further than this, the California delegation would have much more influence—would be much more likely to obtain a concession for the State-should it pull together for the best available candidate—the candidate who is the people's choice-rather than slop around from one aspirant to another, and act as if it were putting the vote of the great State of California up to auction, to be knocked down to the highest bidder. The interest of California and of California Republicans lies directly in line with Maj. McKinley's candidacy. Let the delegation stand for his nomination and election, and the matter of California's official recognition under his administration will come along in due ourse, we are confident.

GEN. CLARKSON'S SNEER.

Gen. J. S. Clarkson, who has recently ourneyed through the West in the interests of Senator Allison, and who is elieved to have some understanding with the political boss element at San Francisco in favor of Allison, adopts an antagonistic policy toward Gov. McKinley on the ground that the latter is too extreme a high-protective-tariff advocate. In this attitude Gen. Clarkson appears somewhat indifferent to the ter lesson which the people of the nation have had since the tariff of 1890 was trampled under foot. They remember, even if Gen. Clarkson does not, the very great cost to them of the Wilsonion extravaganza and the disruntion of husiness the pernicious of fect of which is felt even at this mothing of the benefits accruing under the McKinley tariff. They know of of manufactories unde that tariff and of the high wages prevailing up to the time that the counthe McKinley bill as being an extreme is little reason to doubt that the debts protection measure Gen. Clarkson is in error. For the three years of the opderstood that the government would eneration of that measure the average rate of duties on imports was 21.66 per ent. During the first three years of but the cash would be forthcoming at the tariff of 1883 the rate was 30.58 per cent., and from 1869 to 1872 it was 41.94 per cent. Gen. Clarkson is reminded plain in this matter. There should be that the McKinley bill of which he complains as being an extreme protection measure had the hearty san business-like way. California Republicans want protect tion. Whatever may be the faults of the tariff of 1890—and even Gov. Mc Kinley does not claim that it is faultess—the fact remains that it was the lowest tariff ever framed by Republicans, and accomplished the object of reducing unnecessary revenue without removing the safeguards needed by many industries. The Republicans of this State believe this. They value the service of William McKinley in securing that desirable legislation and they believe that, as the Chief Magistrate of this nation, he will do what is in his power to see that the manufactur ing and commercial interests of the United States are judiciously protected nd cared for in every way rather than that England's greedy capitalists shall be fed first at the expense of the na-tion's commercial life blood. Political parties are necessary, and n intelligent citizen of this country per-forms his whole duty unless he is a member of some political party, and is ready to record his vote for the support of the principles of the party in which he believes.

The greatest need of every free coun try is the development of the civic conscience, that which leads to active loyalty in the defense of right principles and the embodiment of them in our daily actions. We need a patriotism that will express itself in honest government, incorruptible public servants the enforcement of just and righteou laws, and that will seek the greates

Prof. Albion W. Small of the Chicago University recently said that "We have three kinds of laws. There are the laws which represent those conclusions which we have formed throughout the ages about what is necessary to the public order. These we call the political laws. The laws of the United States are of such a kind that anything the people of the United States agree wanting they may have. We can get anything under our system of government. Therefore there ought to be in us as citizens no more lively and ready teeling than the deepest indignation of which we are capable whenever any administrator of the law, from the cleri or judge of election up to the President of the United States, is in one jots false to the trust which the people

It is, therefore, evident that the cry of "two harbors," when it is examined, means that the people of this section should abandon the free deep-water harbor at San Pedro and allow Mr. Huntington to have the money which the United States engineers estimated as the cost of a deep-water harbor at San Pedro—and a little more, to cover Mr. Huntington's campaign expenses, we presume—for the purpose of building a deep-water harbor at Santa Monica Canyon, to be controlled by the Southern Pacific Company. This is what the petition really means, however it may be disguised. It is true that the people of Los Angeles and vicinity are offered a bribe, in the shape of an appropriation of $392,000 for the improvement of the inner harbor at San Pedro, but what kind of a substitute is this for the loss of a free deep-water harbor at that point, and the construction of a deep-water harbor at that point, and the construction of a deep-water harbor at the loss of a free deep-water harbor at which the people have not asked for, which they do not desire, which has been thrice condemned by the United States engineers as unit for the purpose, and which would give the Southern Pacific Company the opportunity it has so long striven for, to cut off reilroad competition in this section and to control our deep-sea commerce. have committed to his charge." There ought to be the same feeling of indignation everywhere when the wishes of the majority in any com-munity are disregarded and measures terests are sought to be forced upon them by corporate monopolies and the powers whom they may bribe to act with them in thwarting the will of the people. Such indignation is at white heat in our midst, and it will not sub-side until the will of the majority is regarded and Congress shows itself to be the servant of the people instead of the obedient slave of a soulless money-ession at the primaries. If citizens of to be careful in regard to the contents of petitions which they are called upon character and integrity neglect their duties at the primaries, professional corrupters of politics will take advan-tage of the oportunity thus afforded for their evil work, and will, as they have often done, place in positions of trug-scoundrels who are ready and willing to trade upon the sacred rights of the people, to do the bidding of the cor-rupt and unscrupilous bosses, who are their sponsors, and in every way to bring about the "loathsome opposite" bring about the "loathsome opposite" of all the people desire and demand. If conscientious voters will turn out in of these vile tricksters can be thwarted be-desired result be achieved. Thus a vote at the primaries may be of more real importance than a vote for Presidential electors.

If Huntington had no selfish purpo to subserve, he should and would favor San Pedro for a deep-water harbor, in-stead of Santa Monica. From the statestead of Santa Monica. From the state-ment of his own engineers before the Rivers and Harbors Committee, it ap-pears that Huntington has expended more money at San Pedro than at Santa Monica. Government engineers-than whom there is no higher engineer-ing authority in the world-unani-mously concur in recommendus. mously concur in recommending Sar Pedro as the best site on the Los An-Pedro as the best site on the Los An-seles coast for a deep-water harbor, and the most ardent advocates of Santa Monica—including Huntington himself—have never denied that San himself—have never denied that San Pedro has great natural advantages over Santa Monica or any other site in this part of the State for harbor purposes. All these things being true, and the Southern Pacific having free access to San Pedro, in common with other roads, why is Huntington so determined upon securing an appropria-tion for Santa Monica, and so hostile to San Pedro? The answer is obvious Huntington has a "cinch" at the forme place, but none at the latter.

The municipal election which was held in Riverside on Monday hinged mainly on the question of prohibition or high license, in regard to which an or high license, in regard to which an active campaign has been carried on by both sides. The election resulted in a victory for the prohibitionists, by the narrow margin of 30 votes out of nearly 1200 cast. This is a poor victory for the prohibitionists, as it shows that the people of Riverside are about evenly divided on the question, and it will be more than ever difficult to enforce the prohibition law. By the way, it is stated that twelve government ilquor licenses are used in Riverside, and that there are seventeen places in liquor licenses are used in Riverside, and that there are seventeen places in that city where liquor can be obtained. At the same time, the city receives no revenue from this illicit traffic..

When the advocates of Santa Mor ica as a harbor site talk about both harbors getting an appropriation, they forget to refer to the manner in which forget to refer to the manner in the amount is divided. The total amount proposed to be granted to the two harbors is, in round figures, $3,200,000. By a fair division San Petals about $1,600,000 of this, dro should get about $1,600,000 of this instead of which we are offered less than $400,000. When we further con-sider that the site to which the bulk of the money is given has never been recommended by the government engineers, and further that it is controlled by a single individual, the gross injusingly evident

The building of the proposed road to Salt Lake would be as important an event to Los Angeles as was the opening of the Santa Fé system ten years ago, and we all know what a differ-ence that made in the progress of the city. We cannot, however, expect to see the Salt Lake people in any hurry to come this way unless they are sure of obtaining access to a good harbor on reasonable terms. He sailed to San Cle-mente Is.and in a fishing smack, and when attempting to return to these shores he was opposed by Uncle Sam's officers on the ground that he was a laborer who had left the country and was therefore debarred by law from again entering it. The claim is set up in defense that San Clemente Island is a part of Los Angeles county. On the other hand, when the Chinaman sailed beyond the three-mile coast line he was on the high seas and beyond Uncle Sam's jurisdiction. The bewildered Chinaman wants to know where he's at anyway.

Dr. Chauncey M. Depew says that California is the "Garden of Eden, without snakes." Metaphorically speaking, Chauncey is right, but if he'll go into the back country down San Diego way, he'll be shown something in the way of diamond-back rattlers that can eas-ily whip the oldest veteran rattlesnake on Chauncey's Peekskiil farm—and Hudson River rattlers are no slouches studeon kiver rattiers are no sloucnes as fighters, either. On the other hand, Chauncey's remark may refer to the other kind of snakes. He had "Corneel" on this trip. "Corneel" is regarded as a temperance chap. One of the San Diego entertainers deprecated offering "Corneel" a jug of native wine at lunch on his car. But after the San Diegan had seen "Corneel" put away five kinds of wine under his vest at this ed that a sample of the native article wouldn't corrupt the New Yorker's morals. And "Corneel" was mighty glad to get it.

ro Inquire Into the Subject of Re hates to Shippers-Western Pas-senger Men Discussing Rates and Mileage Books.

An Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco says: "In connection with the plan of the Southern Pacific Company to construct a short line to Baden via the Potrero and South San Francisco, there is another important enterprise. This is said to be nothing less than the creating of a railroad town, similar to that of Pullman, near Chicago, on the property of the Southern Pacific Company and its individual shareholders in this and San Mateo counties, where the two counties join. "It has long been known that the railroad contemplated constructing a short line through this section, and that this would have been the original route but for the opposition of certain landholders twenty-five years ago, but it is only recently that numerous developments have indicated that the Southern Pacific people have something more in view in making heavy land purchases in the Potrero and more particularly in South San Francisco than securing a right-of-way.

"It is proposed to remove the company's repair shops and roundhouse to the new town. It is said that work on the project is only delayed by the company's lack of ready money."

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION. An Associated Press dispatch from

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The Interstate CHICAGO, April 14.—The Interstate Commerce Commission is preparing to make things warm for the roads running east of Chicago. It has, during the last ten days, issued forty subpoemes for shippers and men connected with the freight departments of the eastern roads, to appear, before the federal grand jury. May 4. The inquiry will be in connection with the rebates and cut-rates on packing-house products from the stock yards in this city. Nearly every eastern road is included in the list, and among the men summoned are several of the large shippers. No subpoemes have been issued for western railroad men, and it is expected the commission will make a fight against the eastern roads first, and if successful will then take up the ordgels against the western men.

PARTY RATES AND MULEAGE BOOKS.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The general officers of the western roads who for three days have been struggling with the questions of party rates and mileage books, have adjourned until next Tuesday. They have decided that the restrictive conditions surrounding the sale of mileage books shall be rigidly enforced and the refund will be paid only the chairman of each passenger association upon the return of the cover of the book, provided it is returned by the original purchaser, who has made no lilegitimate use of it.

On the question of party rates they were not able to reach a definite control, the cover of the book, provided it is returned by the original purchaser, who has made no lilegitimate use of it.

It Was Bad for the Cow. A cow got in the way of the morning Santa Fé train from Santa Monica yes Santa Fé train from Santa Monica yesterday, and before the enginer could stop the animal was struck. The collision was with so much force that the body of the cow was thrown quite a distance, so is struck a tail post. The post was broken near the ground and fell toward the train, striking and breaking two windows. The brakeman who was a short distance in the rear of the broken windows had started to see what was the trouble. The falling post narrowly missed his head, and tore a section out of his coat sleeve.

Mean Little Dos.

Yesterday morning Officer George went to a lumber-yard to pax a little bill. As he came out from the office, he noticed a mean-looking little dos. lying by the door. When he had walked helf a block up the street, he felt something sharp on the back of his hand. The little beast had followed the policeman and bit him on the hand. The back of Officer George's hand was badly torn. The policeman went to Police. Surgeon Bryant and had the wound dressed.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY. final Preparations for the Flower

Final Preparations for the Flower Festival.

Santa Barbara, April 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) Santa Barbara is all activity, excitement and hum. The merchants are energetically engaged in decorating their stopes and men are at work erecting arches and ornamenting the streets with palms and other semi-tropical plants. Here is a man, and there is a man, hastening along with coired bunting, while over there is a carriage being loaded with plants and flowers to be taken to the grand pavilion. Visitors are shopping, and others are taking the street-cars for a trip to the Old Mission. Carriages, busses, hacks and gurneys are driving hither and yonder, and Santa Barbara is one mass of energy and excitement. The near approach of the day of the carnival has awakened new interest and has made the laggard strive to equal his heighbor in making Santa Barbara's great festival a success, artistically and for-cally and something beyond comparison with any other of filte nature in California.

Today (Tuesday) has been a day of preparation, no special feature being allotted for this date. On Wednesday there will be a display of fruits and flowers at the grand pavilion under the directorability of D. Lorento Yates, who is recognized as one of the meat experionalists in Southern California. The doctor says the display of roses will surpass anything ever seen in this section. The fruit display he says will compare favorably with any similar exhibit shown in California.

One of the unique exhibits will be the South American fruit, cherimolia. This fruit is indigenous to the soil of Feru and partakes of the characteristics of the strawberry and a number of other fruits, special mention is made of this fruit, because it is seldom seen. If Dame Rumor can be beautifully ornamented for the surface in this paradic the will be in evidence. The pavillon will be ready for the display of fruits and flowers at 3 colock on Wednesday. Half an hour later will be me vidence. If Dame Rumor can be becominated the "Rosebud" parade, when all the lo course the best accommodations cannot be had at his time.

The number of arches on State street will be three. One between Haley and Cota, one between Ortega and De ia Guerra, and one in front of the Arlington Hotel, just above Victoria street. The arches will be ornamented in the style and manner of those of last year. On State street, between De la Guerra and Ortega, are being placed a great many pain trees. This block is assuming a very pretty appearance and will exceed any of the other blocks in the character of its ornamentation.

National Guard Will Go Into Camp - Athletic Sports-Tribune Seats are Selling Rapidly.

The sale of seats for the different events opens to the general public to-day at Blanchard-Fitzgerald's music store. The sale includes seats on the tribunes to view the parades, including the floral day, seats at the concert and the ball and admission to Athletic Park on Athletic day and for the fire-

The procession of Wednesday will be varied in its character. The United States marines from the man-of-war Philadelphia, to the number of fifty, will be in line, while the entire brigade of National Guard of Southern Cali-fornia has been ordered to participate. Brig. Gen. Last with his entire staff will be in command, and it is estimated that at least six hundred men, including the cavalry troop and the naval re-serve, will fall in line. The National Guard will be in camp

Golden West met at Turnverein Hall last night in order to form a new parior. Members of the other Los Angeles parlors came up to assist in the installation of officers.

An election of officers was first held and resulted as follows: D. W. Edelman, president; W. T. Craig, first vice-president; Edmund Germain, second vice-president; F. D. Holman, third vice-president; Melville Toplitz, marshall; A. M. Bembrook, recording secretary; G. W. Lichtenberger, financial secretary; W. A. Maler, treasurer; outside sentry, Warren Hopperstead; inside sentry, Eugene Roth; trustees, L. Isaacs, A. C. Brode and M. Lissner; past president, Harry J. Fleishman. Frank Sabichi installed the new officers, assisted by E. C. Schnabel, A. Ramish, C. Bennett and I. Balzer of Los Angeles parlor, and W. Lyndall, E. A. Meserve and W. J. Variel of Ramona parlor. The new lodge starts off with forty-five members, and will doubtless grow rapidly. The members intend to make a specialty of the social side of life, the membership roll containing many names prominent in society and business circles. At an early date the new parlor, at the invitation of T. S. C. Lowe, will attend a grand banquet at the Echo Mountain House, during the week at Grand avenue and Twelfth street, where parade grounds have been laid out and where guard

The great Chinese dragon, two blocks in length and operated by 150 Celestists, will be the great attraction, and aside from this wonderful piece of mechanism the Chinese will have in line three floats and a large number of their countrymen in the richest of silks and satins with the most gorgeous gold trimmings. A large number of Chinese from surrounding towns will be here to see the dragon.

The fire department of this city will undoubtedly make a display that will be a credit to Los Angeles. The fire laddies are now making extensive preparations to show their "macheens" to the best advantage.

The bands will discourse lively airs during the entire parade through all the streets.

The young ladies and gentlemen of the Los Angeles Business College are daily rehearsing for the part they will take in the manning of the floats. They have secured most clegant costumes and will make a very handsome appearance.

The Athletic Committee has selected the following prizes for the different events: 100-yard dash, first prize, opal and diamond scarf pin; second prize, silver flask; 440-yard dash, first prize, diamond sleeve links: second prize, silver playing card set; $80-yard run,

LOS ANGELES OIL

Outlook of the Industry From a Geologic Standpoint.

Prof. W. L. Watts's Address to the Science Association.

Spirited Debate-Correspondence Work of the Local Society-

The regular monthly meeting of the geologist of the California State Mining Bureau, devoted to a careful analysis of his notes on the Los Angeles and Sespe oil fields. Prof. Watts came to Los Angeles more than a year ago, at the request of the Chamber of Com-merce, to look into the geological condi-tions in the oil district, and his report, made at that time, was of special ad-vantage to the infant industry, which has since assumed such important pro-hame changed making it puters application.

President Knight was of the opinion that the objections outlined by the letter were not serious, as it was certain the State would eventually be divided and in that case the southern portion would be known as "South-ern" California. The society having a similar appellation would be named in harmony with the new State.

The amendment was finally rejected the southern was a state of the same of the southern would be the southern was finally rejected.

The amendment was many rejected by a vote of seven to twelve, and the name as originally proposed was adopted, thirteen to one. The designa-tion now is the "Southern California Academy of Sciences."

Academy of Sciences."
Resolutions were presented changing the annual membership dues from $1 to $2, and making other trifling changes in the by-laws. Motions for the adoption of an official seal and a medal, to be issued on the basis of results achieved through original research, were made and will come up for consideration at the next meeting. Prof. Watts was then introduced and spoke as follows. The lecture was illustrated with lantern views, maps and charts:

LECTURE OF PROF. WATTS.

"Mr. President; Ladles and Gentle-

"Mr. President; Ladies and Gentle-nen-The last time I had the honor of men—The last time I had the honor of reporting to our society on the progress of my work in connection with the petroleum interests of California, I roughly outlined the geology of this city and its vicinity and I described the Puente oil fields. Since that time I have made a general reconnaissance between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, and have paid especial attention to some of the localities which, on account of rock exposures and the drilling of wells, seemed to offer the best opportunity of investigation. The object of the State Mineralogist in this matter, is to obtain a record of our petroleum yielding formation, to determine the geological position of the oil yielding rocks and to ascertain the structural conditions under which petroleum is a second of the oil of the structural conditions under which petroleum in the geological position of the oil structural conditions under which petroleum in the second of the oil of the oi mine the geological position of the oil yielding rocks and to ascertain the structural conditions under which petroleum has been formed in California. This eveninis I hope to give you some idea as to how this work is progressing. As there is not time to tell you of all that has been done, we will take for our text the Los Angeles and the Sespe oil fields, and at some future date I hope to have the pleasure of describing to you the oil fields between the Sespe District and Santa Barbara. "The Los Angeles oil field has been carefully studied by gentlemen in this city since the first days of its development, and they have written very ably on the subject, so you must not be surprised if I tell you some things that have become an old story. At Los Angeles, the rocky formations constitute a portion of the southern slope of an anticlinal fold, which appears to extend eastward from the Caheunga Mountains. The axis of this fold, although rather ill-defined, can be found a short distance north of Elysian Park. The prevailing dip of the strata forming the south slope of this anticline, is a little west of south, modified by subordinate folds or flexures, which in some places, have locally inclined the strata in an opposite direction. There are two such flexures, one to the north and the other to the south of the oil wells at Second-street Park. Owing to the alluvium covering the rocks, only gilmpses of these lines of disturbance can be obtained, but a careful study of them leads to the conclusion that they can be traced as follows:

"The most important line of disturbance can be traced with a course south 55 deg. east from the corner of Vermont and First streets to a point a little south of First and Glassel streets, thence to a point on Quebec, near Ocean View avenue and thence to another point about 100 yards north of Fourth and Bizel streets. The other line of disturbance can be observed on Burlington street near Temple. It can be traced to Temple street near Lake Shore avenue, and probably the disturbance of the formation near Bellevue and Victor street is associated with it. A little disturbance can be noticed in the middle of the oil field on Court, near Toluca street.

"The rock penetrated by the oil wells at Second-street Park, consists of soft, thin bedded sand-stones and sandy clays and shales, which are interstratified by their strate of impure limestone and calcareous strates and two or more strata of oil-bearing sand. This formation is of Pliocene age. The principal stratum of oil-bearing sand is about 150 feet thick and it crops out at the surface on Burlington street, about 100 yards north of First street.

"This diagram, which shows a section across the west end of the oil field illustrates how the oil field is bounded on the north by a line of geological disturbances, or by the oil sand coming to the surface of the ground, or on the south by another line of disturbances and by the oil sand dipping so deeply beneath the surface that even if water was not encountered, it would not be profitable to drill to so great a depth. On the left-hand side, is the line of dis-

a further distance of 360 feet, where the oil sand was struck at a depth of 739 feet, we get an angle of only 16 deg. 'Further eastward the discrepancy in the dip of the oil sand in the north and south portions of the field is still more marked. The probable explanation of this discrepancy is that lower formations are crushed and faulted, while those above them are bent and tilted. With the oil sand dripping at this low angle we see that it could not come to the surface of the ground before reaching the line of disturbance noted in the north end of the field. The dip of the oil sand in the eastern end of the field in the north end of the field. The dip of the oil sand in the eastern end of the field is illustrated by a design in wood which Mr. Hawley has carefully prepared, and he has promised to show it to us this evening.

THICKNESS OF OIL STRATUM.

THICKNESS OF OIL STRATUM. "The operators in the Los Angeles oil fields agree that the main stratum of oil sand is from one hundred to one hundred and fifty feet thick, but that as a rule it is not productive all that as a rule it is not productive all that as a rule it is not productive all the way through. After comparing the opinions of well-drillers whom I have had the pleasure of talking with. I have come to the conclusion that it is a general opinion that on an average at least forty feet of the oil sand may be put down as pay dirt.

"Experiments have been made by Mr. Hawley, a civil engineer and a member of our society, as to the absorbent powers of this oil sand and he states that he found that the sand would absorb about 19 per cent. of oil sgn. 14 deg. B. These figures agree very closely with experiments made in eastern States on the absorbent powers of sand. Mr. Doheny also made some experiments on oil sand from the Maltman tract, and obtained higher results.

"For the purpose of obtaining a con-ent powers of sand. Mr. Doheny also made some experiments on oil sand from the Maltman tract, and obtained higher results.

"For the purpose of obtaining a concrete idea of the situation which is within the range of probability, let us tentatively admit that the Los Angeles oil field, as far as developments have shown, derives its oil from a stratum of sand carrying about 10 per cent. of oil: that the said stratum is about forty feet thick and has an area of about four million square feet. Such a stratum would contain in round figures about 2,850,000 barrels of oil. A careful canvass of all the oil-producers of Los Angeles oil fields produced 729,855 barrels of oil, about one-fourth of our theoretical total contents of the sand, and no inconsiderable amount was produced in 1894.

"The question that naturally arises is, how much of the remaining 2,000,000 barrels of oil can be obtained by pumping? There do not appear to be many factors on which to base an estimate. We must bear in mind that the oil is heavy oil; that the gas pressure in the Los Angeles wells was never very great. Therefore, the probabilities are that even after a well has ceased to yield enough oil to pay for pumping every day, providing the wells do not become filled with water or choked with sand, small quantities of oil might be pumped from them for quite a long period. Moreover, although there is such a forest of derricks at Second-street Park, they are by no means uniformly distributed over the four million square feet which we, by the way of a rough estimate, put down as oil land.

OUTLOOK OF THE FIELD.

"When I last revised my list of OUTLOOK OF THE FIELD. "When I last revised my list of wella I found that there were 330 wells in the field, allowing to each well say south, or flextocally to discributed. It would seem that there must be more land in the area we calculated on yet to be heard from. Much of the unbroken territory is covered by streets and buildings; all the better for the wells which are near them, but it seems probable that if oil seems up to its present price, wells will yet be sunk at Second-street Park, which may yield moderate returns. The question which naturally presents itself is, cannot other strada of oilyielding sand be found by drilling to a greater depth than has yet been needed? The experiment is worth trying, but there is no shutting our eyes to the following facts: The only wells which have gone far below the main oil sand have encountered water, and water at a depth of 1000 feet or more is very hard to shut off in a soft formation. An examination of the limited outcrops of rock to the north of the oil wells does not disclose any such a body of sand as the one we have previously noted. With the limitation of the oil field at Second-street Park, in sight, and the constant report of deciling yield in the wells there which are still producing, the question as to the extension of the field becomes one of great moment. We spoke of this subject when I last had the pleasure of addressing you. In reply to a question, I said that the only plan was to follow the strike of the formation which has proved to be oil producing until a broken formation was encountered which would prove unproductive. I said that to the westward the oil field would most likely be limited by the line of disturbance which we have previously referred to as extending from the corner of First and Vermont to Quebec street. Three wells have been sunk a short distance south of that line of disturbance. One is south of First street and west of Alvarado.

"Another is the old Dryden well, which is about one thousand feet northwest of the Union Oil Company's well. A third well was drilled south of First street and west of Alvarado.

"Another is the old Dryden well, which is about one thousand feet northwest of the Union Oil Company's well. A third well was graded. In these wells a little heavy oil was obtained and much water was encountered. They were abandoned.

"On the Maltman tract, however, south of this line of disturbance, there are nine wells varying from 140 feet to 255 feet in depth, each of whic was encountered. On the creek which flows through the Mathman tract there is a more extensive exposure of bituminous rock than anywhere else around Los Angeles. A short distance south west of Ward and Vermont streets a formation is exposed which resembles the sandy and clayey formations penetrated at Second street park. This formation overlies a series of bituminous sand-stones which show a thickness of about eight hundred feet, although the brogg outcrop resulting from the slight angle at which the sand-stones dip conveys the idea that they are thicker. Continuing up the creek across the line of disturbance previously noted, soft bituminous sand-stones are again met with, but the rock exposures are insufficient to indicate the dip of the formation. These sand-stones much resemble the oil sand seen on Burlington street. Following along First street toward Second street park the few rocks exposed show a peculiar flatness of strata, in formation, which at no great distance are uptilted at a considerable angle. This is indicative of faults, and faults in such a location might admit water into the sandy strata.

"That such is the case is borne out by the well sunk by Mr. Doheny a short distance south of First street between Newhall and Alvarado, where a small amount of heavy oil was obtained and water was encountered.

"Granting that the sand cropping out on Burlington street is really oil sand, this west well of Doheny & Co.'s must be situated nearly on the outcrop of the sand.

"From the foregoing it will appear that the outlook for the wastward does."

this west well of Doneny & Co.'s must be situated nearly on the outcrop of the sand.

"From the foregoing it will appear that the outlook to the westward does not seem very encouraging, although it is quite possible that wells yielding small amounts of oil might be obtained in that direction.

"To the eastward the outlook is a little better. At first sight the steep dip of the formation as seen at the corner of Beaudry and Bellevue avenues is very disheartening, for the continuation of so steep a dip would restrict the field to a very thin oil line. The rock exposures on Bartlett street near Pearl show a dip of a little west of south at an angle of about 25, which leads to the conclusion that the steepness of the dip at Beaudry and Bellevue avenues is but local. There is, however, a fault on Bellevue and Centennial street which might cause trouble.

FRUITLESS OUTSIDE PROSPECT-

FRUITLESS OUTSIDE PROSPECT.

ING. "As is well known, several enterpris-ing citizens have drilled wells in an endeavor to find other oil lands in the vicinity of Los Angeles, but without success. In most instances, however, the strata they penetrated showed small quantities of oil. The great obstacle to geological work around Les Angeles is the few rock exposures, owing to the surface being covered with earth and in many places with houses. Between Los Angeles and the cean there are many points where bluminous matter exudes from the surtuminous matter exudes from the surface of the ground, but no good exposures of rock can be found without going far back in the hills. On the seashore, north of Santa Monica, there is an excellent opportunity for observing the remarkable series of rocks. Along the shore line a soft, sandy formation, probably of quarternary age, rests non-conformably on sandy and shaly strata containing Pliocene fossils. "This Pliocene formation is for the most part thin-bedded. In the lower portion of it there are bituminous strata and numerous thin strata of impure limestone. The upper portion of it shows much micaceous material and infusorial earth.

shows much micaceous material and infusorial earth.

"In this paper I have omitted the question as to whether the deposit of petroleum at Second-street Park is a primary or secondary deposit. A primary deposit, as explained when I last had the honor of addressing you, is a deposit of petroleum contained in the stratum of rock in which it was formed. Such a deposit, although it may vary in richness, can be confidently traced along the strike of the formation. It conforms to the general stratographic contour of any conformable rocks which has wandered from its original source and finds a resting place in any porous strata in reach.

"To elucidate this matter, I have here an illustration from one of our standard works on petroleum, which has been slightly modified so as to express the matter in one picture. The green stratum at the bottom A. B. is a primary stratum in which the petroleum orginated. Providing there are sufficient rock exposures, by suitable geological observations it can be traced wherever it extends. A neglect of such observations, as in the case of the well marked F, will result in failure.

"The blue stratum at the top, which is marked C. D. and is cut through by a ravine, has been saturated with petroleum which has come up through a is marked C. D. and is cut through by a ravine, has been saturated with petroleum which has come up through a fissure from the primary stratum below. The blue stratum C. D. is a secondary deposit. It might be followed as an oil rock for some distance from this fissure, but unless fed by other fissures it would become poorer and poorer, and at last cease to be patroleum-bearing.

"In most parts of the world the primary deposits consist of lighter oil and contain more gas than is the case in secondary deposits. I am not sure that this is always the case in California, owing to the broken nature of the rocky formations. The oil-bearing stratum at Second-street Park has not been traced far enough to determine on strato-graphic grounds whether it is a pri-mary or secondary formation."

Mr. Watts then went on to give a most interesting sketch of the oil-bear-ing mountain regions of Ventura county, in which he has "noughed it" for many weeks. The address was ac-companied by photographs, which made the subject plain to the audience.

Down on the east side of Central avenue, just north of Ninth street, stands a little wooden store building. On the windows, in dingy lettering, is inscribed "Nuts, Candles," and other words an-nouncing that a little grocery store once tried to flourish there. The place had been vacant for some little time, when, a month ago, a man went to the owner and offered to rent it. This man goes by the name of Reese. He is about forty years old and has a wife who is probably not over twenty-three. During the weeks the pair have lived in this place on Central avenue they have mixed but little with the neighbors. They bought things at a lives a few hundred feet away, to buy nilk. Both husband and wife were very uncommunicative. They would not say much about who they were and where they came from, and were not talkative even on general matters. They were seen around their home but little, and that generally early in the morning or late at night.

The couple owned a horse and buggy. They kept the rig in the rear of their dwelling, and seemed to be out in it a large portion of the time.

On the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Central avenue is a grocery store owned by Anderson & Butterfield. A few weeks ago Mrs. Reese called at chases. In payment she offered a silver dollar. The grocer looked at the coin bit it, rang it on the counter and tested it in various different ways. Then he gave it back to the woman and told her it was a counterfeit coin, and he would not take it. The woman offered a good dollar, and went away.

Mr. Anderson suspected something wrong. From the woman's actions he wrong. From the woman's actions he surmised that she knew all the time the coin was bad. He decided the pair needed watching. So he sent a note to one of the police detectives, telling him that he believed Reese and his wife were a pair of counterfeiters.

The weeks went by and the Reese

The weeks went by and the Reese family was left in peace. Yesterday morning, Mrs. Reese failed to come for the milk, the first time since she had lived in the old storeroom. The horse was gone from the back yard, but the was gone from the back yard, but the buggy was still there, though taken to pieces and stacked up in the corner. The furniture was still in the house. Yesterday morning a detective appeared at Anderson's grocery and in a lamb-like, innocent way asked if Mr. Anderson knew anything about a man named Reese, who lived on Central avenue, and who had neglected to pay a feed bill. Anderson said he did and told the detective all he knew. Monday night a man of about 40 years and a woman aged about 23, were locked up in the City Jail without being previously booked. Therefore the conclusion that a pair of detectives have broken up another gang of counterfeiters.

TWO NEW WELLS.

That are Producing Daily a Large

Oil has been struck in two new wells on the hill, and if the production keeps up as at present—a most unlikely up as at present—a most unlikely thing—they will prove valuable additions to the source of supply. The pump was started in the Raymond Company's No. 2 well on Saturday night, and in forty-eight hours 167 barrels were taken out of the hole in the ground. The tubing was pulled on Monday, and the pump will be started again today. The prospects are good for a 125-barrel well. The well is situated on Angelina street on the east ated on Angelina street, on the east line of the oil belt, in the old field. The second well is the property of Turner Bros., and is located on the cor-ner of State and Patton streets. Propner of State and Patton streets. Properly speaking, it is not a new well, but has been deepened, and on Monday at noon the pump was started. Between that time and 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning ninety-seven barrels were pumped out. This makes the production of this well about the same as that of the Raymond well.

tion of this well about the same as that of the Raymond well.

A few more such wells would have a decided effect on the supply at the present time. It is impossible to say how long the flow in these wells will last, but probably not longer than a month will elapse before the output sinks down to about thirty barrels. The producers have the satisfaction of knowing that the less oil produced, the higher the price.

A committee from the different G.A. R. posts of this city met last evening in Judge Morrison's court and organized a General Memorial-day Committee, the purpose of which is to arrange for the general exercises on Memorial day, May 30. Prof. J. M. Guinn of Stanton Post was chosen chairman and Sam Kutzer. was chosen chairman and Sam Kutz of Frank Bartlett Post was the choice for secretary. Fred W. Stein of Bartlett Post was chosen as president of the day and Dr. L. H. Holland of John A. day and Dr. L. H. Holland of John A. Logan Post was selected to act as grand marshal. The committee voted to invite Gen. A. B. Campbell to deliver the oration, and Byron L. Oliver also will be invited to give a short address. The following committees were appointed by the chair: On Music, Comrades Charles Derby, William Young and Capt. J. A. Osgood; Committee on Programme and Hall, John W. Francis, Col. H. Glaze, Capt. Stearns, John Davis and N. D. Mussey. The general committee will meet again on next Tuesday evening at the same place.

Various objugatory epithets are just now being heaped upon the head of City Auditor Fred Teale by the members of the City Council who take an active interest in the affairs of the city which they are supposed to gov-The trouble has all arisen by the action of the auditor in "juggling" with the funds, which are intrusted in a large measure to his keeping. A recent research into the condition of the various municipal funds by Councilmen Teed, Munson and Stockwell, developed the fact that the Auditor had, in the kindness of his heart, transferred $3000 from the Central Police Station fund to the gas-lighting fund, this sum being just about the amount that the Los Angeles Lighting Company thought it needed from the city, in payment of its demands on the treasury.

Last Monday this fact was discovered and the Councilmen were quite "warm under the collar" when the circumstance was brought to light. It had been the intention of the Council to "stave off" for a time the lighting company, treating that corporation just as other creditors of the city have been treated—that is, made to wait its turn for payment of its bills against the city.

But the lighting company, not being altogether accustomed to such treatment from its customers, chafed under the delay, and devised a scheme, with the assistance of the City Auditor, and possibly one or two of the Councilmen, whereby it could secure money from the city treasury. That scheme was nothing less than to have the Auditor transfer, as has been described, money from one fund to another, thus enabling the lighting company to cash its warrants.

The City Auditor is said to have no authority whatever to ern.

The trouble has all arisen by the ac-

its warrants.

The City Auditor is said to have no authority whatever to make such transfers, and his action in thus thwarting the designs or plans of the Council by so doing is roundly condemned by the members of that body. The Finance Committee is expected to have a report before the Council next Monday, on the matter, and, judging by the temper of the committee's members, the report will be a warm one.

REFUNDING BONDS

The City Council May Have Another

The refunding bonds of the city have been declared invalid by the Supreme Court of the State, but the indications point to the making of another trial point to the making of another trial in the matter of issuing bonds. It is contended by Councilmen Munson and Stockwell that the bonds can be again voted by a four-fifth majority of the Council, without the calling of an election by the people.

It is declared in the opinion It is declared in the opinion of the Supreme Court that by an amendment supreme Court that by an amendment to the act governing such an issuance of bonds, adopted March 27, 1895, "no election by the voters is required as a preliminary step, but the governing body of the city is empowered to refund the outstanding indebtedness and issue bonds therefor by a vote of four-fifths of its members,"

As the point upon which the court and issue bonds therefor 'by a voie of four-fifths of its members,"

As the point upon which the court held the Londs illegal was that 'he payment of them was to be made in New York city instead of Los Angeles, it is thought that the bonds can be voted and sold and made payable in this city. Opinions differ as to the price that could be obtained for them. President Teed of the Council does not think they could be sold, or if they could be, that no premium could be gotten. Councilman Stockwell, chairman of the Finance Committee, is confident that they could be sold, on these conditions, drawing 4½ or 5 per cent, and a premium paid by the buyers. During the time that will elapse between now and next Monday the matter will be discussed by the Councilmen and a plan of action decided upon.

City Attorney Preparing an Ordi-nance Covering the Subject.

City Attorney Dunn is preparing an rdinace, to submit to the Council next fonday, which will regulate by its pro-ordinace, to submit to the Council next Monday, which will regulate by its provisions the erection of seats for spectators during the coming fleeta. It will be remembered that C. L. Strange, Superintendent of Buildings, recently asked of the Council that some special action be taken in relation to this matter, claiming that it was only by a merciful dispensation of Providence that an accident, involving loss of life, did not occur during the last fleeta, when scores of ramshackle structures were converted into "tribunes," the owners reaping a rich harvest from the rental of them.

The City Attorney, acting on the recommendation of the Superintendent of Buildings, will frame the ordinance so that no structure, more than four feet in height, to be used for seating purposes, can be erected until a permit has been issued by the Building Superintendent for the same, and following this a personal inspection of the "tribunes" will be made by either, the superintendent or his deputies. This will insure the proper construction of these seats.

Strange is devoting a part of his time and energy to the enforcement of an ordinance which has been steadily violated by different persons within the past few months.

This is the ordinance relating to the class of buildings that may be allowed to be constructed within the limits of fire district No. 1 and No. 2. This ordinance forbids the erection of any test or cloth-covered structure within this district, and the penalty for violation of the same is fixed at $100 fine, or an imprisonment for a term of days in the City Jail. Superintendent Strange has had his deputy, William Rommell, investigating the violations of the ordinance, and the latter reports having found a number of cases where tents of different sizes and used for widely different sizes and used for widely different sizes and used for widely different purposes being used in the limits. found a number of cases where tents of different sizes and used for widely different purposes, being used, in the limits of fire districts Nos. 1 and 2. Notice has been given the persons responsible for the erection of these tents that the law must be immediately complied with in this matter, and the tents removed to a location outside the districts. A reasonable length of time has been given the owners of the canvas buildings to comply with the law, and when such time has elapsed the necessary proceedings to enforce the law will be at once commenced by the Superintendent; of Buildings.

FOR ANNEXATIONISTS. FOR ANNEXATIONISTS.

The Building Superintendent is having some trouble in convincing the property-owners in the territory recently annexed to the city that it is obligatory on them to obtain from his office building permits, just as do those contractors who erect buildings within the city, as it used to be. Superintendent Strange contemplates making a tour of inspection in a few days through the annexed suburbs, and rounding up the owners of buildings who have begun the erection of such structures since the lat of the present month, without obtaining permits.

Emil Werner has been suffering for over a year from cancer. Early yesterday morning the dread disease carried him off. The body was taken to Krespio & Bresse's, but no physician could be found who would issue a death certificate. Coroner Campbell went down to Werner's home on Thirty-third street yesterday afternoon to hold an inquest. Werner had medical care in the early stages of his illness, but the doctors decided nothing could be done for him, so he was left to die. Werner was a plasterer by trade. He died in great poverty, leaving a widow and several children.

AT THE COURTHOUSE. THE COURTS.

County Ordinance Agrees With In

Judge Smith yesterday filed an opinlon denying the petition of Edward Reed for release upon a writ of habess corpus and ordering him to be remanded. This is the action brought by the agent for the Singer sewing machine to test the validity of the ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors, which requires a license for peddling any wares whatsoever in this county.

Reed, at the time of his arrest, was engaged in peddling sewing machines which were manufactured in New Jersey, shipped to Los Angeles and stored in a warehouse in this city belonging to the company. He contends that the ordinance which requires a license for peddling these machines is in conflict with the interstate commerce law, wherein it is provided that no municipality, subdivision of a State, or a State can pass any laws that will in any manner prevent or restrict commerce between the several States. The question in this case is whether an ordinance of this county requiring all peddlers to pay a license is valid as to parties who come in here from another State with their merchandise and proceed to dispose of it by peddling from house to house.

Reed cites several cases in support of his contention, in which the several laws and ordinances were held unconstitutional upon the ground that they discriminated against persons of other States seeking to bring their merchandise into the States of Missouri and Virginia, and were denied the privileges and advantages of the cittzens of these States.

The statutes of Virginia prohibit the sale of manufactured articles of other States, unless by the owner, who was taxed as a merchant, and a decision upon the case by Justice Field holds that "commerce among the States in any commodity can only be free when the commodity is exempt from all discriminating regulations and burdens imposed by local authorities by reason of its foreign growth or manufacture."

Judge Smith holds that none of the Federal courts have gone quite to the lengths claimed by the defendant, and that so long as no discrimination is made against persons or property from other States such laws do not conflict with interstate commerce law.

In this case the Singer Manufacture ing Company has a warehouse in this city where the goods are stored before being peddled around the country. Judge Smith holds that when the sewing machines in question were landed in Los Angeles and placed in this warehouse they became mingled with the merchandise of engaged in peddling sewing machines which were manufactured in New Jer-

BEAR VALLEY DISTURBED. Three Warring Corporations Figure

In a Suit.

Judge Shaw was racking his brains yesterday over some preliminary issues in the case of the Russ Lumber and Mill Company vs. the Muscupalbe Land and Water Company. It is alleged by the plaintiff that in September, 1891, the Muscupalbe Company gave five promissory notes, aggregating $15,000, to the Bear Valley Irrigation Company, and that these notes were transferred and assigned to the Russ Company, the plaintiff in this suit, which is brought to recover the interest due, which amounts to $1289. The Muscupalbe Company claims that its note was given to the Bear Valley Company upon, consideration of an agreement by the latter to furnish the Muscupalbe Company with 43,560 cubic feet of water per shnum. Soon after the agreement was made the Bear Valley Company became insolvent, and the water was never furnished to the defendant corporation, which claims that its notes were assigned to the plaintiff as collateral security for a preëxisting debt, and that having received no consideration it is not liable for either principal or interest.

Renault pleaded guilty to the prior conviction of having feloniously assaulted Emma Elichholz about five years ago, and Judge Smith, after the conclusion of the evidence in the present case, gave the hoary sinner a judicial raking over, and openly expressed his sincere regret that he could not sentence him to pass the rest of his days in the penitentiary. Renault will be sentenced according to the degree of his crime on April 20.

He concludes that the American stomach is not educated up to the point of using wine daily. Mexicans and other warmblooded people drink wine, but native Americans do not take kindly to it. The California wine-makers have to depend for their sales of wine in this country on the foreign element in the population of the big cities, principally in New York and New Orleans; that is, the French and Italians and others of the Latin races. An investigation into the prospects of California white wines in New York developed the fact that the Germans, the principal consumers of white wines, much prefer to pay 25 cents more a bottle for the imported Rhine wines to drinking what is claimed to be a better quality of California wine at a lower price. It is impossible to avoid the conviction that the remedy for this is very much in the hands of the California wine manufacturers and merchants themselves. The national prejudice against California wines is based primarily on the fact that a large proportion of the wine that has in times past been sent to eastern markets has been of wretched quality, and many of the so-called better brands have been heavy, heating and deficient in bouquet, and not such as would induce a connoisseur to drink them a second time if he could help it. An eastern man who passed through California recently says he was astonished at the excessive charges made for California wines of all grades. Instead of the wine being offered at prices that would encourage its substitution for other liquors and possibly eventually create a popular taste for it, the rates charged for it were very nearly, and in some cases quite, equal to those of the European wines to which they were supposed to correspond. It seemed an anomaly that in the heart of a wine country, while a gl'ass of the inferiority of their wines to those imported. NEW IDEAS OF VENTILATION.

It has long been held by physicians and sanitarians that the discomfort and danger to health and life existing in unventilated rooms occupied by a number of human beings were largely or entirely due to peculiar organic matters contained in the air expired by those persons. It was also thought that the increase in carbonic acid due to respiration had but little effect in producing these results, its chief importance being that it furnished a convenient means of determining the amount of vitation of the air. Several experimenters have recently questioned this theory and maintained that the organic matters in the exhaled breath are not harmful. This comforting contravention has now been fully established by a series of investigations, the results of which have been presented to the Smithsonian Institution. The investigators found that the air in inhabited rooms, such as the hospital ward in which experiments were made, is contaminated form many sources besides the expired air of the NEW IDEAS OF VENTILATION. hospital ward in which experiments were made, is contaminated from many sources besides the expired air of the occupants, and that the most important of these contaminations are in the form of minute particles or dust, in which there are microbe organisms, including some of the bacteris which produce inflammation and suppuration. It is probable that these dust particles were the only really dangerous elements in the air, and it appears improbable that there is any peculiar volatile poisonous matter in the air expired by healthy men and animals other than carbonic acid. The summary of the report indicates that some of the theories upon which modern systems of ventilation are based are either without foundation or doubtful, and that comfort and health in inhabited rooms can best be secured by the adoption of the best methods of preventing or disposing of dusts of various kinds. Other absolutely essential matters are the proper regulation of temperature and moisture, and the prevention of the entrance of polsonous gases, like carbonic oxide, derived from heating and lighting apparatus, rather than the simple dilution of the air to a certain standard of proportion of carbonic acid present.

AN IDEAL BICYCLE BRAKE.

While the bloycle saddle still defies the attempts of the manufacturers to standardize it, the ideal bloycle brake appears to have arrived. It is invisible, and although only a few ounces in weight, it has an action of almost incredible effectiveness. By simply turning the grip on the handle bar very slightly any desired brake power can be applied, from a slight checking friction to an absolute locking of the wheel. It apparently solves the brake problem absolutely. The principle is that of a spring coil made to clutch on the crank axle by pulling on one end of the coil. The tension is applied by means of a light steel chain running through the lower tube, the head and the handle bar to the grip, a worm being fitted inside the cork handle. It cannot be broken by any exertion and as there is only a steel coil and a steel chain there is nothing about it to get out of order.

OPIUM LESS OF A CURSE THAN ALCOHOL.

Few people have any idea of the vast areas given up wholly to the cultivation of opium. The consumption and the manufacture of this drug, far from decilining, are on the increase to an almost incredible extent. In the district of Bengal alone, there are nearly one million acres devoted exclusively to the cultivation of the poppy. The recent agitation in England with a view to inducing the British government to no longer encourage the opium traffic in India, signally falled, and the bitter denunciations against the drug vented by certain sectarian bodies have lost the weight they carried when the truth of the matter had not been told. It is now widely believed that, taking it all around, opium does less harm and more good than alcohol. The reply of a distinguished native Indian official when questioned on this subject is suggestive. He said the opium habit was much preferable to the alcoholism of America and Europe, and recommended that a reform be inaugurated in those quarters of the globe by the introduction of the drug as a substitute for alcohol. The bishop of Calcutta admits that there are evils arising from the abuse of opium, but is of the opinion "that they are not sufficiently great to justify us in restricting the liberty which all men should be permitted to exercise in such matters. Medical testimony seems to show that opium used in moderation is in this country harmless, and under certain conditions of life distinctly beneficial." Moissan finds that the Chinese do not sinoke crude opium, but a preparation of it called Chandu, which, when fleated to about 250 deg, produces a smoke formed of volatile perfumes and a small quantity of morphine; this appears to produce no more ill effects than tobacco smoking. The residues that remain after opium smoking are sold as dross. When this is treated to a temperature of 300 deg, to 325 deg, vario

An improved machine has been designed to sand-paper planed surfaces of materials for panels, doors, or any class materials for panels, doors, or any class of work in street-car construction requiring a perfect surface either for varnishing or painting. It is heavy and substantial and made to work various widths from thirty inches to sixty inches. The sand-paper, graded according to the work to be done, is placed on three steel drums. The first drum carries a coarse grade of paper, the second a fine grade for smoothing, and the third a finer grade for giving the material the polished surface. Each has an oscillating or vibratory motion laterally across the material to prevent the formation of lines which would result if the revolving motion were direct. Each drum is equipped with a device for adjusting the sand-paper around it, and giving it the proper tension in the shortest possible time; There are eight feeding rollers, which are so placed that the material will pass between the upper and lower sets. They will receive material eight inches thick. Everything is cleaned by a brush attachment as it passes finished from the machine.

LENE GAS.

The question whether or not acetylene gas is destined to be a real benefit to the public appears to be hanging in the balance. It is stated that as a result of Prof. Henry Morton's report on the dangers of acetylene gas, the New York Board of Fire Underwriters have resolved not to insure any building in which acetylene gas is regularly used. Before the Acetylene Gas bill, which gives a special company the power to lay mains, etc., in the streets of the cities of New York State, becomes law various boards of health propose to urge objections against any plan for distributing this gas broadcast until it has been finally settled whether commercial acetylene is or is not a menace to public health, and whether the gas is or is not too explosive at low temperatures to be used for house lighting. Dr. W. H. Birchmore, who has made a special study of the subject, says that one cubic foot of acetylene in 10,000 cubic feet of air produces headache in twenty minutes, and that without being perceptible to the smell.

Cycling Chaperonage.

(Pall Mall Gazette:) A new occupation is looming up on the impecunious woman's horizon. It is a significant fact that mothers who advertise for governesses require a knowledge, upon the instructress's part, of cycling, or order that she may accompany her young charges when they go a-wheeling. It seems likely that a new, remunerative employment may open up for women in the form of cycling chaperonage.

In regard to the much-discussed question of dress, a skirt long enough to reach six or seven inches below the knees, this being short enough to render pedaling easy, seems to find many advocates. Few people are really decided about knickerbockers. The other morning there were two girl cyclists on the platform of a country station. One wore a short skirt, the other knickerbockers. The contrast was remarkable, the latter looking conspicuous and far from graceful. She could not even walk about without imitating a masculine swagger and thrusting her hands in her pockets. She was not an impressive figure, all her femininity having disappeared.

There is a skirt which English women

There is a skirt which English women are wearing for cycling which gives perfect freedom, and makes life on wheels worth living. The peculiarity of this skirt is the clever introduction of a wide trouser, which gives the freedom of a knickerbocker with the appearance of an ordinary walking skirt. It is made of erge or tweed, lined with silk. A blouse and short jacket are worn to complete the costume.

The clever English girl who wishes to go to a dinner party or a dance and does not own that luxury; a carriage, mounts her wheel in wheeling costume, her evening dress neatly folded up in a box or bag being secured to the bloycle in some ingenious way, and off she goes, with her father or her brother as an escort. Upon the arrival at the scene of festivities she slips into her gown as easily as you please.

THE STAR CHAMBER

Secret Councils of Rivers and Harbors Committee.

Specious Pleading in Behalf of the Santa Monica Steal.

nked—Strange Solicitude of Congressional Economista for Southern Pacific.

WASHINGTON (D. C.,) April 6.—The star chamber of the House has held its session, and San Pedro, the people's harbor, received $50,000, while the comparatively unimportant harbor of San Diego, obtained $30,000, and San Luis Obispo $32,000. It is true that San Pedro could have had $392,500 if the committee had been allowed to donate $3,000,000 to C. P. Huntington, but when this very charitable scheme was interrupted by the prompt and decisive action of the Free Harbor League, the members, thwarted in their philanthropy, could only afford $50,000 for a truly meritorious measure.

The bill, including continuing contracts, appropriated over $60,000,000. There were several items upon which there might have been questions raised. Naturally this could possibly cause embarrassment to the committee, for the Santa Monica property was not the only Naturally this could possibly cause embarrassment to the committee, for the Santa Monica propect was not the only one in which they had exhibited their generosity. In fact economy only cut a figure when particular friends were not involved. They did not want to allow any amendments or debate. It would have required time, and then to question the omnipotent wisdom of the members of the committee would be but little short of sacrilege, so the bill passed without any one but the members of the committee themselves really knowing what it contained. And it was this plan that they had hoped to work successfully in order to pass the Santa Monica project. The only trouble was that the bill was delayed a week longer than expected, in order for the committee to take a trip to Boston Harbor. They had been careful to keep the California delegation in ignorance as to the amount allowed Santa Monica, but when everything was ready, Mr. Hermann wrote the now-famous letter to Mr. Patterson. Had the plans been reported before any fight could be made, and the fact that information had been sent out would have relieved it of the semblance of undue secrecy. But the committee was delayed at Boston, and two days before the bill was reported, the Patterson letter had borne fruit and the scheme could not be carried out.

fruit and the scheme could not be carried out.

Now the bill goes to the Senate. There will be an amendment introduced raising the appropriation to $100.000, and there is a strong prospect that the Santa Monica project will also be revived, as an amendment in the commitate.

There riever was a shrewder political move than that of Huntington when the inner harbor only was asked for at San Pedro, putting in a bill for the outer harbor at Santa Monica. It furnished a personal to the committee to outer harbor at Santa Monica. It furnished an excuse to the committee to say that San Pedro did not ask for an outer harbor. Of course that is a mere subterfuge. Every member knew that the larger improvement was not walved or abandoned, but only held in abeyance on account of the persistent cry of economy raised by leaders in the present Congress.

California's representatives were never able to get as much information as Hermann sent the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. And then when Bowers objected to the large appropriations for San Pedro and Santa Monica and Barham spoke in favor of the former, the committee became enraged without any more than this very slight provocation and killed both schemes, subsequently restoring San Pedro to the to the committee of the schemes, subsequently restoring San Pedro to the to the scheme of the former, the committee of the schemes, subsequently restoring San Pedro to the to the scheme of the country of the schemes and the scheme of the scheme slight provocation and killed both tochemes, subsequently restoring San Pedro to the extent of $50,000. Then Hermann, who, in conjunction with fowne and Burt, is entitled to the credit for saying even this much, proposed to restore both if the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce would agree. No such agreement was made, and the plan fell through, although he promised that 3000 men would be employed within three months.

What interest the economical commits.

three months.

What interest the economical committee of this economical Congress could have in the matter, to make its members fight so hard for Santa Monica, and become so very indignant at any opposition being manifested to the scheme is difficult to determine, but it must have been very great for them to be willing to allow so large an amount in the bill to two harbors thirty miles apart, if Huntington's scheme could be carried out, and that, too, when not a member of Congress fathered the bill. Why this great anxiety to confer a magnificent gratuity upon Huntington as his personal request?

That Speaker Reed has a warm sympathy for the millionaire bankrunt is well known, and it is scarcely presumable that the Rivers and Harbors Committee had not received assurance from the powers, that the bill could pass, when their anxious solicitude is considered. I have had the constant assurance of the California Senators that Santa Monica would be beaten after leaving committee, but members of the committee must have felt confident the other way.

If it had passed, San Pedro outer

Santa Monica would be beaten after leaving committee, but members of the committee must have felt confident the other way.

If it had passed, San Pedro outer harbor would have been killed for all time, and if favorably reported, it would have placed California representatives in the unprecendented position of fighting to keep three millions of dollars from being presented to them, which would have required so much explanation to working people that it is no wonder that the committee expected no California opposition in the open house. Representative McLachlan and Senators White and Perkins reported up to the very last day, that they were informed only $100,000 was allowed to Santa Monica, and $392,000 to San Pedro, when the former had $2.800,000 from the start. In view of Hermann's letter to Patterson giving full details, it is certainly very singular that California representatives should have been kept in ignorance of the real condition of affairs.

Members of the committee were primed with Huntington, argumentathat Santa Monica would be free to all raliroads; that the outer harbor at San Pedro would be surrounded by land owned by Huntington, and the latter would be no more free to all than the former. All of which specious reasoning the people of Los Angeles are already familiar with: but it would be interesting to know how the committee got them so pat when no one fathered the Santa Monica scheme.

But San Pedro has won a victory. It will have enough money to work with this year, and the conditions are revealed so that the friends of the people's harbor will know what to count upon and how to kill the Santa Monica project when it comes up next year, as it will. When the people understand the proposition to turn over the harbor to the exclusive control of Huntington, they will as a unit almost protest, and the Santa Monica scheme will be so ventilated that reputable Congressmen will not dare to favor it.

The first round of the fight has been will not dare to favor it.

The first round of the fight has been owns all the railroads, harbors and steamship lines, the United States and California might as well cede the balance of the State, and let him dispose of it as he sees fit.

That the alluring prospect of securing so large a sum for one's own district should nonplus a Congressman or Senator is not strange. It has been refused, and the progress of the bill will be watched with great interest to see whether or not there is to be any fenewal of trouble in the Senate Committee on Commerce, of which Senator White is a member, and Senator Fryewho is a devoted follower of Huntington, the chairman. With Senator White on the committee, it will be impossible for the California delegation to have any lack of information as to what is going on, and if there is another attempt to put the Santa Monica project through, there will be no secrecy about it, if Senator White stands by San Pedro.

FRANK L. WELLES,

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

LOS ANGELES, 'April 11.—(To the Editor of The Times:) To one who views the situation and the course of affairs from the standpoint of an onlooker, some things about this harbor question seem plain; so plain, in fact, that it is most surprising that they have not been seen and commented on and given the prominence they merit. Of course, one who is not on the inside, so to speak, must depend on what he sees in the daily press for his information, as to the prime facts.

It has been generally understood that the present Congress would not make any large appropriation for any new enterprises involving large expenditures, and even those undertaken already been done, would have to be content with nominal amounts until the public treasury was in a more plethoric condition. As I understand it, it would be without prededent, and wholly irregular, and unbusiness-like, for Congress to appropriate so large an amount, or even any amount for any improvement that had not been inspected and recommended by the government's own employés. As his has not been done in the case of Mr. Huntington's Santa Monica Harbor, it seems so improbable as to be ridiculous to think that any appropriation could be secured for it at this time. I cannot think that even Mr. Huntington himself had, or has, the least idea that any appropriation would be or will be, made. Realizing this, and knowing that if an amount is secured for San Pedro, it would greatly lessen his chances for securing anything for Santa Monica in future, it is to his interest to prevent any appropriations was smart enough to know that the easiest and most effectual way to do this was to get the people at this end to quarrelling among themselves. It seems more than probable that the McLachlan-Hermann telegram. Which intimated that some $3,00,000 could be secured for Santa Monica, if the people would act in unison, was instigated by Mr. Huntington, who well knows the views and wishes of this people, and who knew that the mere mention of the matter would result in indignant protests to make a winning light for his becomen.

It is more than passing strange that Mr. McLachlan did not detect and refuse to be made a party to the plot. Possibly he had a reason for being a pliant tool; but it is even more surprising that some persons here fell such easy victims to the very simple plot. It must be plain to any intelligent mind that there is not and has not been the slightest possibility of Congress giving Santa Monica $3,000,000 or any other amount at this time. Would it dare do if on Mr. Huntington's unsupported recommendation?

amount at this time. The amount at this time the commendation?

Mr. Huntington is smart and has much influence, but he cannot reasonably get Congress to go beyond all precedent and appropriate so large, or even any amount without first having more basis for such action than the unverified word of private individuals. Mr. Huntington's experience and knowledge made all this plain to him, and he knew also that Congress would hardly make any large appropriation for improvements in any section where the people were apparently divided as to the location and the conditions.

It did not take a very "long head" to work this out, and we see how nicely it has operated—worked like a charm. No doubt he appreciates our efforts, laughs at our simplicity and creduilty, and chuckles at how ripe and ready to and chuckles at how ripe and ready to and chuckles at how ripe and ready to be plucked we were.

This windy talk of the Express is in keeping with this plan. No doubt it had its instructions, and no one who reads it will doubt that it is doing the best it knows how to earn all it may be getting. But who can be in a more pitiable position than one who works in direct opposition to his own conditions?

The surprising part of the whole matter is that anyone can be so blinded, so easily duped, and so unmindful of the past record of Mr. Huntington and his Southern Pacific Company as to think that he ever had an idea or an interest that was for his welfare and the welfare of the people at the same time.

If Mr. Huntington wants or expects the welfare of the people at the same time.

If Mr. Huntington wants or expects to make a harbor at Santa Monica at all, it is safe to say that he knows why he wants it and that he is not losing much sleep thinking of how much good it will do the people. If he has turned hilanthrophist his metamorphosis is of such recent occurrence that the good people do not yet know of it, and it will require much better evidence than his unsupported word to convince the public that his conversion is genuine and sincere and is without some selfish motive behind it.

If the people are convinced beyond doubt that San Pedro is the best and most practical place for a harbor (as it no doubt is) why not stay with the proposition and refuse to be turned about by every passing influence and the cry of those who may be paid to cry? If it is "San Perdo or nothing" and we act on principle, let's stay with th, and we'll win.

(To the Editor of The Times:) Dear Sir: Yesterday a petition was circulated on South Spring street, purporting to come from the Chamber of Commerce, asking all members of that organization to sign. This petition was favorable to a harbor at both Santa Menica and San Pedro.

I have contributed my part as a member of the Free Harbor League, toward sending a committee to Washington in the interest of San Pedro. My firm (Edwards & Vance) has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce since its organization.

I informed the circulator of this petition that if the Chamber of Commerce favored a petition of this nature that we would withdraw our membership from that organization, which I will do at once. I will also add that if the Free Harbor League sanction any movements toward an appropriation for a harbor owaed and controlled by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at Santa Monica, I wish to withdraw from this body also.

Organised and Purchased Mouthings
LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(To the Editor of The Times:) Although, in the present controversy between the unswerving advocate of the rights and interest of Los Angeles and the Southern Pacific Evening Mouthplece, most all of the points in the argument have been touched upon, there is one thing that has not been mentioned, and that is the amusing side of the question.

The first of the amusing things is the manner in which the Southern Pacific et al. managed to "pack" their hall on the night of their pretended "mass" meeting. In the front part of the hall, immediately in front of the rostrum, a number of rows of seats were reserved for the employés of the Southern Pacific, where they might see, hear and become enthused, to their heart's content.

Of course the men turned out in come. where they might see, hear and become enthused, to their heart's content.

Of course, the men turned out in a body. But the part of the matter that is not known by the general public is that on the evening before the night of the meeting, when the section hands were about to knock off work, a gentleman in authority appeared and politely requested all those present to occupy front seats at the proposed mass-meeting, adding that if they did not appear, they migh expect to receive any salary that should be due them, when they reported for work the next morning. As I before remarked, of course the men turned out in a body, and thus the "Mouthpiece" was enabled to say next evening. "The citizens of Los Angeles have arisen en masse and spoken for two harbors."

The day following the Southern Pacific's gathering the railroad organ suddenly concelved the idea that their list of subscribers was sadly in need of recruits (a fact, probably true enough, by the way.) Accordingly each carrier was given as many "sample copies" as he could stumble along under, with instructions to scatter them far and wide. This scheme is in keeping with the Southern Pacific's other plans for accomplishing their object.

But if these two incidents have no other good use, they serve, at least, to knock out one of the Evening Mouthpiece's arguments. Said argument is that the Southern Pacific, with all its influence, would accomplish its wishes whether the people liked it or not, and influence, would accomplish its wishes whether the people liked it or not, and, therefore, we should accept the inevitable, meanwhile laboring for an accompanying appropriation for the harbors which has been designated by the people as their choice. But if this is the truth, and the Southern Pacific is sure to receive what they ask for, why, let me ask, did the Southern Pacific Company spend a large amount of money advertising its meeting? Why did they pay a similar amount of money to their local organ to print, day after day, columns of misrepresentations, and to distribute thousands of "sample" copies throughout the city, that the people might change their opinions, and enlist in their ranks?

The fact of the matter-is, the Southern Pacific Company knows that if the people of Southern California, aided by their representatives in Congress, oppose this daring scheme for the plundering of the nation's treasury, and unite in the cry of "San Pedro or nothing," the Southern Pacific and its paid agents will be defeated, and we shall see our hopes realized (if not now, in the near future,) and San Pedro made, as nature intended it should be, the outlet for the commerce of this busy and prosperods city.

The Finesse of the Fakirs.

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(To the Editor of The Times:) Your criticism upon the action of the City Council, in committing Los Angeles to the Santa Monica scheme, is timely, and the city should arouse to the fact that the same course of semi-secrecy has repeatedly resulted in its misrepresentation. Whoever undertakes to commit Los Angeles to the interests of Mr. Huntington proceeds in a sneeking way, as if conscious of the meanness of his cause. Publicity is sought just far enough to be able to deny absolute secrecy, and to allege that deliberation was pursued. The utmost danger results from these actions, because it is impossible to prove to persons at Washington that such so-called public actions are not really private.

Famous Ex-Dominican

the Copts.

Father Hyacinthe, says a writer in the Pall Mall Gazette, has been converted to the Copts! This is the news which has sent a sensation of curiosity through the Catholic world in France. After being a Carmelite monk, a preacher at Notre Dame and a very pillar of the church, Pére Hyacinthe prinar of the church, Pere Hyacintheor, as he has latterly become known, M.
Loyson—denied his former faith without very positively adopting any other,
and has since been hanging about in much the same disconsolate and incoherent way as those disembodied souls beyond the "border" that reply by tappings on tables and the creakings of sofas to the queries of the spiritualistic faithful. The last time I saw him was in company of a Jesuit friend. His Catholic friend—a portly personage of infinite bonhomie, exuding benediction, and with that chronic tear in the eye
the disquieting convexities of which seem mainly destined by nature to magnify the main chance—was apologizing for having written with unnecessary severity on Pére Hyacinthe's marriage with a widow. "Je vous pardonne," said the Pére, opening his arms, and the two enemies kissed. It was very touching, very characteristic of
M. Loyson in its sentimental theatricality, and it did not prevent my Catholic friend from subsequently sketching the Gaillean reformer's career in the following brief sentences, which in their Jesuitical nonchalance are a fair statement of the Catholic case. Said my friend: "Père Hyacinthe professes never to have really left the Catholic fold. There came a moment when the Carmellte monk allowed his tonsure to sprout, married a widow, and set vigorously to work to reform us. 'But you can't get rid of me,' he declared defiantity. His first outburst was as an isolated reformer. It is wrong to say that the joined the Gallican church, for there is no Gallican church (it's the 'yaller light' in the fable, except that the old show is not on fire,) but he went over to Geneva and joined the old Swiss Catholics. When their faith seemed to be ripening into Rationalism he left them, returned to Paris, and pontificated for a while in his chapel in the Rue Darras as Gallican primate. His services were mainly frequented by Anglicans on the look-out, 'and American ladies anxious to see Mme. Loyson (nee

Rue Darras as Gallican primate. His services were mainly frequented by Anglicans 'on the look-out,' and American Iadies anxious to see Mme. Loyson (née Merriman,) 'the American woman who had married a monk.'

Attracted by the undoubted validity of his orders, the Dutch Jansenists, a very respectable body, now came to him for communion, and their hierarchical chief, Monsignor Gul, Archbishop of Utrecht—who smokes, reads Augustine, and wants to be quiet—sent him the president of his seminary at Anersfoort, mainly to ascertain if the Pére would consent to give up his functions. For the Dutch Jansenists—Old Roman Catholics, as they like to be called—permit the marriage of a priest, but only on condition that he ceases to act Catholics, as they like to be calledpermit the marriage of a priest, but only on condition that he ceases to act as one. The negotiations fell through.
Pére Hyacinthe abandoned his chapel, but the Dutch Jansenists refused to take it on, and established themselves in a little place in the Boulevard d'Italie. M. Loyson then preached in a Protestant chapel in a black coat, and,
after briefly coquetting with Islamism, has joined the Egyptian Copts. The Copts are judiaisantes, and with them
the marriage of a priest is obligatory.
It is probably Pére Hyacinthe's hope to obtain by this last maneuver the Papal recognition of his marriage; for the Pope's particular hobby at this moment is to bring back the eastern churches
within the Catholic fold.

Coleago Inter-Ocean:) Labouchere, the editor of London Truth, has found out what the Americanism "poppycock" means. He says, in a recent number of his personally-conducted journal: "I have to express my thanks to my numerous American and Anglo-American readers who have enlightened me on the significance of the term 'poppycock.' I gather that a 'poppycock' was originally the western equivalent for a 'cock-shy,' a bird burled in the earth up to the neck as a mark at a shooting match. Hence it comes to mean an object of derision, or a matter of no importance. The precise British equivalent is generally considered to be 'tommy-rot.' I am pleased to be able to place this information at the service of the future compilers of dictionaries, English and American." Lobouchere on "Poppycock."

Search for Hidden Wealth in a Razed Building.

An Allotment of Lands to the Indians.

Paper Will Support the De-posed Governor's Successor. A New Engine—Notes.

PHOENIX, April 12.—(Regular Correspondence.) The second Republican caucus primary was held Friday night at the City Hall, and about doubled its rival in numbers, there being 733 ballots deposited. This would indicate, with the three hundred odd cast at the other reference to say nothing of the other primary, to say nothing of the stay-at-homes, that Phoenix has a fine majority of Republicans. There is much and bitter feeling expressed be-tween the factions, and charges are frankly made today that repeating was done last night.

ALLOTING LANDS TO INDIANS.

ALLOTING LANDS TO INDIANS. Indian Agent Young and P. M. Cor-nick, inspector of the Indian Bureau of Washington, are here from Gila Bend, where they have been alloting land in severalty to the Pimas on the reservaion at that point. But 6500 acres of the 23,000 were found available for al-otment, which was made on the basis lotment, which was made on the basis of ten acres to every man, woman and child. All is under the Gila Bend canal and 5000 acres under the South Riverside canal. The Indians are agreeable to the new adjustment. Similar allotments will be made on the Sait River reservation, northeast of TERRITORIAL FINANCES.

The Territory has on hond at pres ant $132,000, which amount will ent $132,000, which amount will be materially increased in a few days by quarterly remittances from the county treasurers, of balances collected from delinquent taxes. Not a cent of the general fund may be touched at present, owing to the legal complications. The new Governor will probably be installed early next week. His commission is due Monday afternoon, and should it arrive on time he will assume office Tuesday morning. OFFICIALS GETTING FROM UNDER

Okcials appointed to their positions by ex-Gov. Hughes are making them-selves as solid as possible with the new administration. The first was Shaw, superintendent of the Yuma Prison, whose Tucson friends are looking out whose Tucson friends are looking out for his retention. A couple of others are mentioned in Democratic papers, Dr. Hamblin, the insane asylum

"Dr. Hambin, the insane asylum physician, is probably the right man in the right place. It is related that when given to understand by the Hughes McCord aggregation that he must vote for Murphy he told them they could have his resignation, but not his vote. Besides this, the doctor is said to be a most competent man."
"We trust that the political are is said to be a most competent man."

"We trust that the political axe, which, of course, will and should be put to use in many instances by Gov. Franklin, will be stayed in the case of B. B. Adams, the member of the Territorial Equalization Board from Graham county. Mr. Adams is a man of sterling character." etc., etc. To date but a single Hughes appointee has resigned, so far as can be learned.

PHOENIX BREVITIES. Wade Hulings and Theodore Flana-gan, prominent young men of Phoenix, and members of the Young Men's Re-publican League, this afternoon came to blows at a caucus. Maricopa county has $75,000 in cash on hand and is in flourishing condition financially.

TUCSON. TUCSON, April 14.—(Regular Corre-pondence.) The Star, Gov. Hughes's TUCSON, April 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Star, Gov. Hughes's paper, has came out strongly Democratic, editorially announcing to the world its support of Go. Hughes's successor, Gov. Franklin. This has been a surprise to many, and the ex-Governor has been getting enconlcums for his magnaminity. The root of the matter probably lies in the fact that the Star could hardly stand a proposed new Democratic paper for Tucson, and will be made to stradle factions sufficiently to withstand the proposed new organ. The Sunday-closing agreement proposed to the dry goods merchants has been signed by the various merchants in that line, and hereafter the stores will be closed all day Sunday. Four young naturalists of Los Angeles are at Fort Lowell Reservation, near here, on a month's tour of Arizona, looking for specimens. They are in the nature of "pot hunters," however, being only collectors for the trade. "Capt." Tevis of Teviston does gardening between his duties as host of the Southern Pacific Hotel, and came to Tucson a day or two ago to purchase a hoe. To date the purchase of that hee and the incidentals has cost him about 1500.

Station, Prof. Boggs says: "Perhaps the most common way in which water is wasted in Arisona is through the multiplieity of small lateral ditches. The usual custom in this ocaity is for each individua to have his private lateral from the canal to he land. In some places as many as three or four of these ditches will be found on each side of a public road. As these are sometimes of great length, generally carry but a small head of water, and are always used intermitently, their aggregate loss of water is enormous. Much could be saved by a number of neighbors forming an association and maintaining a single lateral for their common use, and when the water supply is low, adopting the time system of pro-rating."

And with this I pledge my undivided support to the Democratic administration to be inaugurated by you, I am, my dear sir, very respectfully. J. F. WILSON, "Trustee."

The crap games of Prescott have again been relieved of their piles. A day or two ago a genteel and suave young man came to town, looked up the loyout so dear to the "come-seben" Ethiopian, and began to throw the little ivory cubes. It was not long before he had two games cleaned out, stripping them of about $500. The third had $170 more for him. He left town on the next train north, looking for pastures new. Now they are wondering or explaining how he did it. About two years ago two individuals from Texas in a similar manner relieved the crap banks here of about $2000.

While in an epileptic fit, a private at Fort Whipple bit off the Inger of a man who was trying to hold him.

The exact purpose of the purchase of the raliroad ties of the defunct Prescott and Arizona Central Raliroad has been learned. They will be used in the construction of a rallroad from the most available point on the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix road to the Castle Creek Hot Springs. In this land of the manana tae production of the toothsome "narancas de Sonora" has not much to parallel it to the methods of orange-growing in the Los Angeles country, about the only resemblance being that both attain boxes of oranges in the end.

This is Mexico, with the modes of two centuries back, and no desire for change. The fruit is known by no other name than the Sonora orange. It has been grown here from the days of the Franciscans without alteration or improvement. The orange will run about two hundred to the box; it has a few seeds and a thin and smooth skin, that breaks easily. The flavor is the acme of sweetness and delicacy in oranges. A former extensive Florida grower recently said of the Sonora orange: "I never saw its flavor excelled, it is like a Florida orange that has been on the tree for months, and has attained all the sweetness possible." The keping qualities are good, the fruit lasting six months.

The methods of culture here would give the thrifty and orderly California grower a fit. The trees are not regula in form at best, being straggly and illibalanced. These faults ae not generally obviated by culture, the trees being allowed to grow in any crazy form they take on. Othed than being given waterevery fifteen days they get little attention. Such of the trees as die young are marked in the future orchard by the absence of any successors. Little nurturing is done for the trees, either in the shape of cultivation or by the application of fertilizers. They bear heavily, nevertheless.

"It's circumstances. I suppose?"

"Exactly. I'd been working for a man in Indiana for nearly a year, and had saved up $100. I started out to go in partnership with a man buying apples. We expected to make $500 in two months. A mule suddenly kicked the man and he died—the man did. That's circumstances, ain't it?"

"Then somebody robbed a store, and as they couldn't find nobody else to arrest, they collared me. I wasn't within fifteen miles of the store, but they are not at all particular in Indiana. They didn't claim I was guilty, but said they paid their constables for hustling, and expected them to arrest everybody lying around loose. Circumstances again, eh?"

"Looks like it."

"I wasn't content to stay in jail. It was too confining, and the sanitary arrangements were bad. I sent for a lawyer and gave him $50 to advise me. He advised me to give the other $50 to the jailer to let me out. See the hand of circumstances?"

Cathede Photography.

(Scribner's for April:) The nhotographs taken by the invisible rays are shadow pictures, and one can form but little idea of the exact position, for instance, of a shot in the thicker portion of the human hand. One would know to be sure, the line along which the incision for the extraction of the shot abould be made; but one would be doubtful whether to cut from the palm inward, and in certain positions, on account of arteries, it would be important to decide which method to take. I have discovered that the process called triangulation can be applied. Suppose that two candles are placed in a dark room at the same distance from a sheet of white paper. Hold a pencil near the paper between the paper and the candles. We shall obtain two shadows. If we measure the distance between the shadows, and if we know the position of the candles, we can find the position of the pencil by drawing lines from the shadows to the candles. Where these lines intersect is the position of the pencil by drawing lines from the shadows to the candles. Where these lines intersect is the position of the pencil by drawing lines from the shadows to the candles. Where these lines intersect is the position of the pencil by drawing lines from the shadows to the candles. CRADLE SONGS.

Entertainment Given as a Benefit for the Free Kindergarten.

"The Cradle Songs of All Nations," given last evening at the Los Angeles Theater, for the benefit of the Free Kindergarten, was a brilliant success. The scenes were artistic, well-carried out as to details, and placed with remarkably little delay. The soloist sid exceedingly well, considering the difficuty under which they labored in having the plano so far removed in the wings as to make it almost useless as an accompaniment.

A large and appreciative audience was present, and most of the boxes and loges were filled by theater parties.

The first scene, the Greek, represented a domestic scene. Miss Todd, as Hera, and Miss Gregory as Psyche, posed as statues mounted on pedestals, while at the altar were the priestess, Miss Knight, and the attendant priestesses, Miss Caswell and Miss Higgins, burning incense. Mrs. Richard McKnight, representing the mother, sat at one side, rooking the cradle, while she very sweetly sang a luilaby. The altar, which was draped in white, was decorated with palms and acanthus. The costumes were all typical, and were exceedingly graceful and pretty. The scene was under the direction of Miss Lawrence. Miss Naoma Alfrey, in a white Grecian costume, embroidered in gold, gave a pretty dance, which was followed by a bass solo by Mr. Huebner.

The Russian scene represented a familiar.

Cathode Rays not as Bright Candle Light.

Candle Light.

(April Scribner's;) Now one of the first questions asked in regard to those rays is this: "How did you obtain a light so intense that you could take photographs through a board an inch thick?" The answer is this: The light is not so intense to the eye. It does not appear as bright as that of a firefly; indeed, it cannot be seen on the darkest night at a distance of 200 feet. Yet a candle can be distinguished on a similar night at least a mile. But the rays of a candle are entirely cut off from a photographic plate by a sheet of pasteboard a sixteenth of an inch thick, or even less. The cathode rays are intense however, to the photographic plate, which can be termed the photographic eye.

WELCOME, GRACIOUS QUEEN OF MIRTH.

TO-MRS. MILDRED HOWELL LEWIS.
Queen of La Flesta.
Bannered flags in ocean air
Wave a welcome, lady fair,
Harvests from our gardens rare
Weave a pattern for your feet,
While upon the crowded street
Tens of thousands throng to greet Thee, whose worth and beauty won Fairest throne beneath the sun.

Dowered by thy God at birth
With a soul of highest worth,
With a beauty scarce of earth,
Welcome, gracious Queen of Mirth!
Sound the trumpet, strike the drun
Let the wondrous pageants come!
Till our sovereign, stricken dumb,
Can but smile on ev'ry one.

Let the dragon banner fly! Let the red men passing by! Let the navies welcome cry! Till our bright Italian sky Echees back the glad refrain-From the mountains to the main— That Flesta once again Finds a peerless queen to reign. Thanks, O Southland, unto thee, rnanks, O Southland, unto thee, Who hath given her to be. Sovereign of a people free; And our maldens fair to see, Adding grandeur to the grand, Gladly round your Highness stand; Tho' each malden's jeweled hand Might have sceptered Fairy Land.

With thy regal form and face, Mated to a kindly grace, Thou hast banished Envy's trace From the daughters of our race; And with mystic, magic art Conquered ev'ry warrior's heart, Till a host of vallant arms Ready stand to guard thy charms.

Now, behold a moving scene Comes to greet the reigning queen; Winding like a brilliant stream In a bright and siry dream, Come the children forward led With thy colors at their head-Marching on to show their love For the queen and flag above.

Gently, Time, O gently now,
Touch that royal form and brow!
Grant her fairest fortune, thou!
Till our children's children bow
To the beauty we behold,
To her virtues manifold. Then, oh queen, when earth is past, Heaven welcome thee at last! LOUIS F. CURTIS.

The Two Harbors.

(San José Mercury:) Los Angeles, which has been built up through the instrumentality of railroad competition, is finally beginning to feel the mailed hand of the Kentucky corporation. The sensation is not pleasant. The city is alarmed. It has suddenly discovered that Huntington is more powerful than the combined inhabitants, organizations, agencies and influences of Los Angeles, and that the extension of the latter's vast commercial interests has been made impossible by the operation of the monoply's president, whose policy with that city, as it has been with San Francisco, is to rule or ruin.

Los Angeles can now appreciate to a ricertain extent the difficulties under which San Francisco has labored. The st improvement of San Pedro harbor is of the greatest importance to the former city. The citizens of Los Angeles are a unit in their desire for an appropriation to carry on the work. Not a single one of their authorized representation he made for that harbor. Not a single one of their authorized representatives has ever requested an appropriation for Santa Monica Harbor, yet Mr. Huntington alone has had sufficient influence with the Congress committee to make it impossible for San Pedro to Preceive a dollar except upon the condition that an enormous sum be also appropriated for Santa Monica. It is not surprising that the citizens of Los Angeles, at a recent mass-meeting, indignantily declared it to be a startling fact, and one that calls for investigation, "that a committee of Congress can be to form the public most concerned, takes it upon itself to say that unless the people of the district unite upon a scheme whereby they shall accept a small and inadequate appropriation for an inner harbor at the place selected for a deep-sea harbor of refuge, and permit a great appropriation to be made for the construction of such deep-sea harbor at the officially condemned site of a private corporation, a few miles distant, then as a punishment for their continue they they shall have nothing at all."

T course, the abandonment of San Pedro as a deep-water harbor and the construction of a deep-sea harbor at Santa Monica for the benefit of the Kentucky corporation. And if Los Angeles refuses to submit to this act of injustice she will get no appropriation at all. Is it not time to inquire, Who controls the government of the United States—the people, or Mr. Huntington?

(April Lippincott's:) One more very profitable scheme of swindling is that of the matrimonial agencies, which are now worked in France in a manner entirely unknown to M. de Foy, who was the real originator of marriage by intermediary. There are of course, offices where preliminary fees are asked and where wife-seekers and ladies yearning for lords are quietly swindled after having been told to go to the opera, the salon, or the fashionable church of Sainte-Ciotilde. The strange part of the matrimonial agency scheme is that you never know, when in society, whether some banker, priest, or old lady of fierce virtue and mystical tendencies may not be a husband or wife-broker. There are young ladies not too thinskinned, head waiters in certain restaurants, livery-stable keepers, cloistered nuns, notaries, and lady doctors of the obstetric school. These are only a portion of the army of workers in the interests of Cupid. There are at present in Paris two wealthy American girls who have married titles, and upon whose wedding-day a very handsome commission was paid to one of these intermediaries, of course without the knowledge of the wife. In one case the amount paid was $60,000. To Encourage Matrimony.

(April Scribner's:) Let us first se what we mean by the term oathod if we should break the tiny filamer If we should break the tiny filament of an Edison incandescent lamp at the middle of the glowing loop, the light would go out. If, now, we connect the two ends of the broken filament to the poles of a battery of a great many thousand volicials cells, such as are commonly used to ring house bells, we should be able to light the lamp again, not by incandescence, but by a feeble glow which pervades the whole bulb. The ends of the broken filament would glow—and the glow at one end of the filament would be different in appearance from that of the other. The broken filament; by means of which the electrical energy enters the bulb, is called the anode, and the filament by means of which, in ordinary language,

Perhaps this is so; but the Listener would like to think that they were invented at Porter's Tavern, at North Cambridge, and that, starting from this humble but festive hostelry, had made the triumphant tour of the world. It will no doubt be a hard matter to establish this Cambridge ancestry for the succulent and liberal porterhouse steak; yet porterhouse steaks are no more celebrated than Parker House rolls. An Elevated Printing Press.

(New York paper:) The highest printing press in this part of the country was paced in position last night. It is for the use of the United States Weather Bureau, and was set on the twenty-second floor of the Manhattan Life building, or, more correctly speaking, on the third floor of the dome on the top of the high building. It is cracily 350 feet above the street level. It is of the Chandler & Price make, and will be used for the printing of weather charts, which heretofore has been done on mimeographs. The press weigs 3000 pounds, and had to be lifted, by means of a block and tackle, from the seventeenth floor to its present loftly position.

(Orange Post.) The latest dispatches from Washington are to the effect that the Committee on Rivers and Harbors has decided to appropriate $50,000 for the dredging of the inner harbor at San Pedro. Santa Monica gets nothing. This decision, while distasteful to C. P. Huntington, the Southern Pacific Railroad, and "Port Los Angeles," is in accordance with the recommendation of the United States board of engineers, and is satisfactory to the greater number of those interested in a harbor at Los Angeles.

The paper shows a city of intelligence and progressive ability. In eight years The Times has developed great progress.

Lunch Spread Under the Peppers at Judge Silent's Grounds—Scene of Surpassing Loveliness—A Ride About Town.

Getting in from the East late Mon-day night, the jolly benifaces who had come to attend the seventeenth annual meeting of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association were slow in con-vening for the transaction of business yesterday. Swarming in the hotels, they were engaged in animated con-versation and it was hard to get away from the friends who called to exchange m the friends who called to exchange with the visitors from the

No special effort had been made to decorate the place of meeting, but the national colors were shown in attractive arrangement about the platform. Draped on both sides from the center downward, the Stars and Stripes attested to the loyalty of the order, and the gathering was typically American. It was past II a.m. when the delegates became seated at the convention hall. All remained in their seats, while a flashlight photograph of the assembly was taken from the stage. The meeting was then called to order by President Benjamin H. Yard of the Avenue, Long Island. At his request the officers of the various State associations took seats on the platform. It was amounced by request of the California delegation that the head-quarters of the association in San Francisco would be at the Palace Hotel.

Henry J. Bohn of the Hotel World, Chicago, was elected secretary pro tempore by acclamation. The reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting being dispensed with, President Yard read his report as follows
PRESIDENT YARD'S ADDRESS.
"Brother Members of the Hotel Men's

"Brother Members of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association: It is with hearty feelings that I cordially greet you all after an interval of nearly a year. Especially do I congratulate you that it has been made possible for us to meet in a spot that we have all heard of so much, but few of us ever expected to see. Thanks to George W. Lynch and his committee, whose hearts were moved to extend their cordial invitation to us last May in the well-remembered, broad-gauge, old-fashioned hearty way of assuring us that our welcome with their oustretched arms would be as wide as their Golden Gate, Can we ever forget their warm hand-shake, accompanied by their parting salute of, 'Well, good-by, and if we never see you again upon this earth, we shall expect to meet you in Callfornia next April.' It seemed a long way off then, but how quickly the time has gone by.

"That which was vague and uncertain to many of us at that time is now realized. We are certainly here. Were any left behind? you may ask. Yes, a any left beniad you may ass. 1es, a few, from one cause and another. And it reminds me of the story of the father whose wife had just presented him with three of a kind. When he was led to where the triplets were arranged in a row, he gazed upon them long and thoughtfully. At last he looked up and said to the attendant: 'Did any get away?'

"The most deplorable mishap in the direction referred to was the inability of our beloved chairman of the Committee of Arrangements for the New York delegation, who is also the president of the New York City Hotel Association, to accompany us. I refer to Brother James H. Breslin. It was a damper upon us all, and up to the present we have not succeeded in becoming reconciled. Up to the last moment, almost, Mr. Breslin had surely expected to have been with us, but the illness of his partner, also the serious lilness of his nephew; had thrown addipected to have been with us, but the filness of his partner, also the serious illness of his partner, also the serious illness of his nephew; had thrown additional burdens of business importance upon his shoulders that he found impossible to postpone or ignore. His written resignation expressed in words strictly Brealinian, was handed to your president to be actel upon by our committee, but at a meeting of the remainder of the committee in, the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, the resignation was not accepted. The committee decided that, though absent in body, our associate brother Bresilin was with us in spirit and love. While we would flove to hear his voice and listen to his eloquent clear-cut words, we content ourselves with pursuing the pace he has set us by his benign influence and recognized wisdom.

"The condition of our beloved association' is most encouraging. Upon assuming the presidency last May, I said that while I would not presume to do better than my worthy predecessor. I would, at least, strive to do as well. The work of the past year has far exceeded my expectations and it is with glowing fellings of pleasure, congratulation and satisfaction that I am able to report it. Our total active membership in good standing to date is 1228, the largest in the history of the association. Only forty members lapsed the past year as against 100 the year provious. We have paid beneficiaries to date the sum of $301,566. A noble and loyal showing it is, and I doubt the existence of its equal. It is my sincere wish and earnest hope that our incoming president may be as agreeably surprised at the end of his term of office as I have been at the close of mine. Our association is a glorious institution—its foundation such an organization. The names of Scott and Rice will live in the memories of the members of the H. M. B. A. as long as the society has an existence.

"From our humble beginning in Chicago, some seventeen years ago, and tion. Think of it! Month after month, through the long years that have passed, these faithful, unsalaried trustees have administered the affairs of the Hotel Man's Mutual Benefit Association successfully and honorably. Would that that unselfish spirit prevaded the whole association; but alasi it is not so, and presume upon general principles we cannot expect-it. At this time I cannot refrain from warning the members that loyalty and love to our association first, last and all the time, are necessary, requisite and essential for its future well-being.

"In closing I desire to voice the sentiments of you all in thanking the several railroad lines for their attention, courtesles and transporting us so luxuriously to the golden shores of California. There is an affinity between the railroad man and the hotel man. Their close relation causes them to take mutual good care of each other when opportunity offers. Finally, my brothers, in taking leave of you all as your retiring president. I wish to extend to each and everyone of you my heartfelt thanks for your attention, assistance and courtesles during my term of office and to bespeak for my successor your individual cooperation of loyalty, love and the 'strengthening of hands' for his coming administration."

CONDITION OF THE ORDER.

CONDITION OF THE ORDER. The address of the president was well received, and its various points punctuated with applause. The reports of received, and its various points punctuated with applause. The reports of the secretary and treasurer, the Auditing Committee, chairman of the Finance Committee, and chairman of the board of directors were then presented in the order named. A balance of $7054.02 was shown to be in the treasury, and the present membership of the organisation was given as 1228, an increase of 100 during last year. Mortuary benefits aggregating $17,800 were paid last year.

Telegrams from absent members were read, expressing regret because of their inability to be present, after which a ten-minute recess was taken for the purpose of consultation regarding the work in hand.

On reassembling, it was announced that F. J. Crank, manager of the Hotel Redondo, would be happy to entertain as many of the members of the association as should be pleased to accept his hospitality, and that the railroad companies would gladly transport free of charge those who might accept the invitation.

Additional telegrams were read from absent members, including the following from S. P. Clark, captain of the party coming from Denver:

"The Colorado contingent, which was snowed in thirty-six hours at Trinidad, Colo, will arrive at 6 o'cleck on Wednesday morning. They send a unanimous vote for George W. Lynch for president for 1897."

The dispatch was applauded vigorously, showing the favor with which the proposition to elect Mr. Lynch as the president of the organization was regarded.

On motion the president appointed the following Nominating Committee

Barker, the Metropolitan, St. Paul, Minn.

A committee to select the place for holding the next annual session was also appointed by the chair as follows: George H. Bowker, Hotel Hamilton, Holyoke, Mass.; E. A. Thayer, Monte Cristo Hotel, Salida, Colo., and W. W. Davis, Norfolk House, Roxbury, Mass. Nominations for president next being in order, the name of George W. Lynch, Hotel Florence, San Diego, Cal., was presented and seconded in behalf of the New York delegation. Three cheers for Lynch were proposed and given with a will. Brief seconding speeches were made in behalf of the Ohlo delegation, New England, Illinois and Georgia. It became apparent that Mr. Lynch was the choice of the convention, and he was elected, the secretary casting the vote expressive of the common choice. Thereupon some one struck up the song, "For He's a Jolly Good Feliow," and the hotel men showed that they could sing tunefully and with enthusiasm.

ADDRESS OF MR. LYNCH.

Mr. Lynch was introduced and received a gratifying reception. He said:

"Under any and all circumstances I should feel myself ordinarily competent to express myself on any ordinary subject. This manifestation of your good-will and fellowship, however, has rendered my words inadequate to express my appreciation of the honor you have extended to me. Outside of the intimation contained in the dispatch forwarded by the Colorado delegation, detained en route to California, I have had no expectation of being recognized in such a manner. That it is your desire to select a man so unknown and from the extreme southwestern corner of the United States is, indeed, a surprise to the City Guard Band presented the United States is, indeed, a surprise to the City Guard Band presented the coloradous desired to the City Guard Band presented the coloradous desired to make the colora in such a manner. That it is your desire to select a man so unknown and from the extreme southwestern corner of the United States is, indeed, a surprise to me. I accept the Honor as extended to California, both North and South. "In your remarks, I am credited with the arrangements for bringing the national association to the Pacific Coast. It is true I had the honor of extending to your organization the invitation last year for the holding of the next session in this State, but in all the actual arrangements for your coming, I have had associated with me a most efficient man, A. C. Bilicke, the manager of the Hotel Hollenbeck, Los Angeles. (Applause. Three cheers for Bilicke were proposed and given heartily.)

"Later on I hope in fitting terms to express my appreciation of the honor bestowed on me today. I hope in coming to the Pacific Coast you will feel when you get home that you have been fully repaid for all sacrifices, for your loss of time, and the inconvenience attendant on a journey of this extent. You will have seen a section of the country new to most of you, which is a part of your heritage, and learned that on this Coast warm hearts are found, as well as the fruits and flowers. Even the sunshine is out, despite the clouded skies, this morning, and I expect that you will have it with you for the balance of your trip. I sincerely thank you." (Applause.)

Calls of "Bilicke," "Bilicke," were heard, and in response the genial host of Hotel Hollenbeck arose in his place on the floor of the convention, and briefly expressed his thanks, saying: "I am awfully glad to see you all here."

NEXT-PLACE OF MEETING.

Invitations were extended to the association to hold the next session at Boston and at Lookout Inn, on the famous mountain overlooking the hattlefield of Chickamauga, near Chattanooga. A cordial reception was promised at both places, should the convention decide in their favor, but the committee was disposed favorably to Boston, and their report was adopted by the meeting. The time for gathering in the Bay State was left for settlement by the board of directors later.

George H. Barker was nominated for first vice-president and elected by acclamation. Scoretary Walter Barnes was also redicated without opposition. An effort was made to arrange a list of second vice-presidents, but it was the sense of the meeting that it would be better to leave the members of the State organizations to fix upon some candidates acceptable to their respective delegations, and leave the announcement of the vice-presidents chosen to be made by the board of directors.

LUNCH ON THE LAWN.

At the Silent grounds, an admirable collation was waiting. The laddes in charge of arrangements were Mmes. S. B. Lewis, Josephine Butier, Fanny Schumacher, Frank Thomas, and E. F. C. Klokke. The taste with which they had directed all preparations for the feast reflected great credit on themselves and on the city. Tables, loaded with substantial viands, as well as danties, were spread under the widely arching pepper boughs and the white-aproned colored attendants gave prompt attention to the wants of the multitude. Not less than a thousand of the hotel men and their wives and friends partook of the bounties so appetizingly displayed. The ladies were presented with generous bunches of orange blossoms and the men found consolation in the "Punch and Judy" exhibition, to which many of them repaired.

Over the long tables especially re-LUNCH ON THE LAWN.

The scene was one of surpassing loveliness. On all sides were heard expressions of undisguized admiration.

The City Guard Band presented the following musical programme: "Los Angeles March," selection from the opera "Cavilleria Rusticana" (by request,) "The Honeymoon" and "King Cotton" marches, schottische, "I Want Yer Ma, Honey"; waits, "My Pearl's a Bowery Girl." Throughout the musical numbers the most appreciative words were spoken of the music and of the organization. Twenty-two pieces are included in the band, the names of the piayers and instrumentation being as follows: C. M. Walker (conductor) and H. F. Kenneke, E flat cornets; G. H. Anderson, C. H. Davis and W. E. Thomas, B flat cornets; Ed Teal, E flat clarionet; Dan Goebils and George Hilb, B flat clarionets; Frank Hathaway, piccole; F. C. Boeckh, solo alto; W. H. Story and George W. RIDE ABOUT TOWN.

When the feasting was over, the assembled, hundreds enjoyed a drive around town, scores of carriages, ranging from four-in-hands and overland stage coaches to dog-carts, being provided by citizens for that purpose. The owners of the vehicles, or persons competent to represent them, went along to drive and to point out the varied beauties of Los Angeles. The parks were visited and the leading residence districts of the city explored. The munificence of the entertainment offered, both at Judge Slient's and on the ride about town, was appreciatively recognized by all whose lot it was to participate. Los Angeles was displayed to the utmost advantage, though the gathering clouds shut out for the most of the afternoon the sunshine for which California is famous.

At 6:30 p.m. a large part of the hotel men again sought the cars in which they had come across the continent, and left the Arcade depot by the Southern Pacific Rallway for Santa Monica. Last night they were the guests of Hotel Arcadia, arriving there at 70 clock. A hop was enjoyed at the hotel in the evening and many took advantage of the freedom of the warm plunge and hot saltwater tub-baths tendered to all the party by Robert Jones, Esq., the proprietor.

Today a special programme of entertainment, consisting of a barbecue, Spanish tournament and aquatic sports will be offered at Santa Monica, lasting from il a.m. to 6 p.m. At 11 o'clock tonight the party will leave for Santa Barbara by way of Los Angeles, arriving there to morrow at 4 a.m., where breakfast and lunch will be served on the cars.

THE TIDE OF EMPIRE. No Longer Does Its "Course" Trend

The various State censuses of the last year show that the steady average drift of our population westward has sjopped, and that the center of the pop-ulation of the nation is now somewhat to the eastward of its position five years

The result has not been unexpected, though perhaps some students of population and its laws have supposed that it would not be observed quite so soon

It would not be observed quite so soon as this.

It is nearly two hundred years since Bishop Berkeley wrote that the "course of empire worked westward. His prophetic lines were true until within five years. But some time within these years the tidewaye ebbed, and it now flows, though yery slowly, toward the Atlantic.

fows, though very slowly, toward the Atlantic.

The statement does not imply that large numbers of persons have in five years moved eastward for settlement. The number is considerable, as at some time we will show, and the conditions of such removal are curious and interesting. The center of population is now more easterly than it was—chiefly because the foreign emigrants of the last five years. Canadians, Wallans, Germans and the rest generally establish themselves near the Atlantic coast, and, in a less degree because of the considerable emigration into Manitoba and other Dominion territory from our Northwestern States.

It was to the French traveler and student De Toqueville that we owe the presented that the present of the properties that the state of the presented at the presented that the prese vil.e's average rate for sixty years more, the wave of emigration would be carried to a point on a meridian a thousand miles further west—say 1700 miles west from the Atlantic. But midway between 1830 and 1890, or a little earlier, a new wave started eastward from the Pacific, which De Toqueville had not foreseen, nor any other speculator of his time.

foreseen, nor any other speculator of his time.

For with 1849, and the journeys and voyages of the Argonauts, who sought golden fleeces in California, with the consequent addition to the union of California, of Oregon, and the other Pacific States, there began a considerable though not very large emigration eastward from the shore of the Pacific. This wave, made mostly from men and women of the Anglo-American type, has at last mingled with the farthest western class of the East of the Atlantic tide. And this very year has seen the establishment of the midway State of Utah, which is a sort or historical monument of the year—when nothing which can fairly be called an unsettled region is left between the two oceans.

As these two tides have flowed, one westward and one eastward, the social conditions have wholly changed, which directed the plans and the wishes of every individual man or woman, whose fortunes were involved.

directed the plans and the wishes of every individual man or woman, whose fortunes were involved.

The emigrants of De Toqueville's time were mostly farmers and their wives and children. In the sixty years since he wrote, the whole art of farming—as applied to the cereal grains especially—has passed through a revolution, One man today does ten-fold the work which the man did then. And today the development both of the steamboat and raliway, wholly change's the value in the markets of the world of the produce of the American farms. The man who paid $18 a barrel for his flour in Boston in 1830 grumbles if he has to pay $5 for it today. And, on the other hand, the bon-vivant at the elegant clubhouse in Denver, is dissatisfied today if his Delaware Bay oyster is not the fresh-flavored one of the cocean. The money value of the crop of the frontiersman in Dakota is ten times as great—acre for acre—as De Toqueville would have found the money value of a crop in Indiana.

What follows, of course, is that the agricultural districts do not need, and so do not have the same population, which they needed and had. The boys, and with the boys, the girls, go from the farms to the various occupations of various industry, generally, if not always, they go into the cities, which have certain advantages, for manufacture, for education, for trade, and, of course, for all enterprises which depend on close and intimate society. So the State of Illinois, while its population in 1835 was larger than that of 1894, owes the increase of the last fifteen years to the state of the last fifteen years to the course, to the state of the last fifteen years to the state of the last fifteen years to the course, for the last fifteen years to the course of the last fifteen years to the course, for the 1835 was larger than that of 1834, owes the increase of the last fifteen years to the growth of the single city of Chicago. Its proper agricultural population is less than it was in 1835. It would, however, be safe to say that their work brings larger returns than it did then. We must not permit ourselves to sigh with any sentimental longings for Arcadia, because we have not so many men delving, or so many women spinning, as we had. To a large extent we must accept the consequences of conditions which we have ourselves created. To a large extent we can modify those conditions and direct them.

It has already been observed in many quarters that the results of electrical inventions are likely to promote decentralization. Mr. Fessenden, in his cautious report published a few days since, says that electricity will concentrate manufacture, and will scatter population. That is to say, so soon as an electric rallway will take a man fifty miles from his place of work in half an hour, the chances are much greater that he will not live within a mile of his work. Even if the suggestions do not prove true, which suppose that the power of Niagara and similar stations will be economically carried to great distances, the same result, in the way of decentralization of population will follow, if we can easily carry the workman to a home not crowded—far from the machine.

Mr. Webster was once asked if the profession of law was not crowded. He answered that "there is always room higher up," and the remark has become almost a proverb, even among people who do not know from whom it came. The late Mr. Wade, in the same spirit announced his wish to establish a college for liberal study which should be "open at the top." Such pithy oracles suggest what is the direction to be hoped for in national progress. We have, fortunately, no occasion to cover more territory, having, as it seems, no more to cover. The very wasteful processes of distant emigration may be forgotten, as the old ship of the prairie is forgotten. She must keep open th

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1, 1898.
To the Public: I was seriously afflicted for about ten years with lung, liver and kidney troubles. Tongue could never express the misery I endured during those years. I was reduced in fiesh until I was a mere skeleton; my sight and hearing were badly impaired was constantly troubled with constipation and piles, and had a severe chronic cough. In short, life was a burden and death would have been welcome. I was treated by various specialists without avail. I finally resolved to give Dr. Wong Him, of No. 639 Upper Main street, a trial. Of course, like many others, I had no faith in a Chinese doctor, but it only took a few doses of his life-giving herbs to five Dr. Wong Him, or continued to the c

Moran's

Magnificent Masterpiece.

The attention of connoisseurs and critics in the world of art, and of all people of culture and refinement, is especially called to the fact that the lithographic reproduction of this celebrated painting was made under the special personal direction of the artist Moran himself. Every one of the twenty-one component colors used in the printing was first approved by the artist before being put upon the lithographic stone.

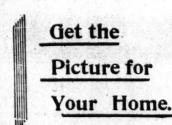

> The Grandeur of the Gorge Portrayed.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, that wonderland of the world, pictured by an artist whose conception was striking, resistless, grand. Thomas Moran's painting, "THE GRAND CANYON OF THE COLORADO," was the artistic triumph and sensation of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The faithfulness of the artist in picturing the awful grandeur of the gorge; the delightful delicacy with which he has touched the rolling clouds of mist; the masterly manner in which he has handled Nature's coloring; that melodrama of flame and gold, and rose and wine and azure, is altogether superb.

19th Century Genius.

It is only high genius that has made possible the reproduction of such a splendid work of art, without the loss of a single sun glint; with all the heights and depths of shade luminously portrayed—a reproduction so real that the master whose hand guided the brush-strokes on the original canvas says of it, in effect: "As perfect as perfect can be." .

It is this great lithographic triumph, this magnificent reproduction of Moran's famous picture, 22 x x 38 % inches in size, that THE TIMES has arranged to supply to subscribers. It is a picture with a theme grand heautiful enough t worthy a place on any wall-in any home.

complimentary light. He was advised by some of his friends to stay out of the crowds Monday night, but, instead of doing so, thurst himself into a crowd at the corner of Colorado street and Fair Oaks avenue.

As soon as the men, who had been playing jokes on one another, and shouting for their favorite candidates, caught sight of Baldwin, they began to guy him, and crowd about him pretty closely. The valiant Baldwin backed up against the windows of the First National Bank and began to shout lustily for the police.

Some of the daring spirits proposed giving the burly reformer a "ride on a rail," and a piece of gas-pipe was just being brought around the corner for that purpose when the Marshal appeared and escorted Baldwin out of the crowd to the City Hall building, the crowd following. There the Marshal told the crowd that they must desist, and disperse, and Baldwin was sheltered in the office of the City Clerk, and the crowd obeyed the mandates of the officer without demur.

ELECTION ECHOES.

Prospect of a Contest Over the Mar-

The election two years ago in Pasadena resulted in a polled vote of 1055, and the gubernatorial vote last fall polled only a total vote of 1456. This makes Monday's vote the heaviest by 235 votes ever polled in Pasadena, and 736 in excess of the last municipal election.

The law for cities of the sixth class requires the newly-elected officers to take their seats the Monday following the election, and consequently the Council will be reorganized on Monday, with Messrs. Hartwell, Patton and Reynolds in the seats vacated by Messrs. Lukens, Weed and Cox.

There is some speculation rife concerning the presidency of the new board. Hartwell is the favored Trustes for the chair of the Mayor, Mr. Washburn being also mentioned for that office. As the board has the power of choosing the Mayor, nothing

The in-coming board will have very little held-over business to transact, and the recent accounting of the heads of departments will be taken down to the time of the expiration of the term of the present vacating Trustees, that the new officers may be able to grasp the city's business easily in its every detail.

There is talk of a contest of Lacey's election, and the number of votes which, it is stated, were cast out by the judges, and should have been counted in case pencilled ballots are allowed to stand, is variously estimated at from 20 to 50.

The Mrs. Seford, mentioned in dis-patches from Phoenix, as having been "mixed" up with a colored man by the mixed" up with a colored man by the name of Slade of Phoenix, a hotel proprietor of that place, is well known in Pasadena as Mrs. Seufert, and was in this city last week, and was boasting to her friends here of a wealthy marriage that she expected to make in the fall with a hotel proprietor of Phoenix, omitting to mention that he was a negro. She attempted to borrow money here for her return to Phoenix, and failing, telegraphed to the negro, and it was that telegram which brought about the denoument. Mrs. Seufert formerly occupied rooms on East Colorado street, near Fair Oaks avenue, and it was she who made a sensational attempt at sulcide last fall by taking morphine, when she declared that she had taken morphine with sulcidal intent, and physicians were summoned to her relief. The common opinion here among people who know Mrs. Seufert is that she is a trific unbalanced mentally, her mania taking the form of violent attachments for the other sex.

Unjustly Criticized.

Cal Hartwell, as a member of the school board, has been severely criticised by the Evening News for concurring in the appointment of Mr. Jones as janitor of the Lincoin school. It was charged that he had violated the United States law, in that he did not give preference to a Union veteran in the appointment. The criticism was a part of the "campaign material" used against him, and which he did not deign to notice until his election to the Council by a majority of 190 votes, which showed that the majority of his fellow-citizens did not believe this and other slanders that have been circulated against him in the last few weeks. Now it transpires that Mr. Jones is a veteran sailor of the civil war, and served three years during the rebellion.

Real Estate Sales.

Among the important real-estate transfers reported is the sale of six lots, owned by Colin Stewart, to M. E. Wood, through E. H. Lockwood. The property fronts 180 feet on Orange Grove avenue, 120 feet on State street, and eighty feet on Madeline drive, the price being $6500. Mr. Lockwood has also sold for Charles H. Frost the property on the southwest corner of Orange Grove avenue and Lockhaven street, Mr. Stewart being the purchaser, the price being the same. Mr. Torrance and Mr. McGilvray have reently sold to Mrs. Walkley fifty feet on South Raymond avenue, for $10,000, and Mrs. Harriet A. Saxton has purchased the Reinertsen property on California street for $9000, the same agent, Mr. Lockwood, negotiating all the transfers.

Plenty of Activity.

There has been some complaint in Pasadena lately that there is not much activity in the real-estate market. An investigation of the list of sales made by one prominent real-estate agent in Pasadena shows that, in the last few weeks, he alone has sold more than $76,000 worth of property, mostly to eastern tourists. Important sales have been made by other firms, and when the aggregate is figured up for the sea-son, it will probably be found that, in spite of the apparent dullness of the real-estate market, this has been an exceedingly prosperous season here in

ONTARIO.

ONTARIO, April 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) Election day passed off very quietly in Ontario, although some live and effective work was done for the candidates on both tickets in the field. There were 152 ballots cast, and with the exception of C. E. Harper, candidate for Trustee, the nominees of the first caucus were elected. Harper and Bates tied with 75 votes each. This will necessitate a new election to decide which man has the most friends. The successful candidates are as follows: Trustees, J. P. Ensley and A. D. Moore; Clerk, B. C. Shepard; Marshal, W. J. Murphy; Treasurer, G. B. Harding. Ensley is the present Mayor, and he was reflected by a large majority. A small aggregation of Populists assembled in the Southern Pacific Hotel Monday night to consider the hefty phases of the money question. Brief addresses were made by Dr. Bumstead, T. S. Knoles, E. Peters, and J. J. Wheeler. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening, when other great national issues will be considered. The Republicans of this precinct will caucus in the Foresters' hall Thursday evening, and nominate ten delegates to the county convention. Primaries are held Saturday in B. C. Shepard's office.

Fruit shipment were the lightest for the week ending April 11, that they have been for any similar period during the season. Thirteen carloads were sent out over both roads divided as follows: Oranges, 1842 boxes: lemons, 1980 boxes; dried fruit, 30,298 pounds. The demand for Mediterraneans is light, and prices do not encourage large shipments. The navels were all cleared up last week. ONTARIO, April 14 .- (Regular Cor-

Abyssinian Stamps.

(Pall Mall Gazette:) Stamp-gatherers will be pleased to hear that new ones have been issued, which can be added to their collections. This time they come from Abyssinia. There are several series, and they are about the size of Italian ones. The first four series have on them the head of the Negus in profile, and crowned, and the other three bear a lion very much like the St. Mark's one of Venice, except that instead of wings there rises from it a flag with a cross. The first series, which are green, have a value of a quarter of a guerche that is, about three farthings; the second, red, cost about one-half guerche, or three-halfpence; the third, bright blue, one guerche, threepence; the fourth, brown, two guerche, sixpence. These, with the head of the Negus, have written in Amharic, "Menelek II." The other three series with the lion are, the first, dark violet in color, and cost four guerche, about one shillings, the second, light violet, eight guerche, almost two shillings, and the third, black, sixteen guerche, not quite four shillings.

When the Democratic party came into power March 4, 1893, the value of the sheep flocks of the United States was $125,000,000. Now the value is about one-half that amount. It is estimated that, through Democratic reform, our farmers have lost $1,000,000 daily since Cleveland was inaugurated.

THE COINAGE. The mints of the United States last month coined $1,540,555 gold and $1,683,531 silver. The total coinage was 5,638,784 pieces, valued at $3,272,903.

NEW YORK APRIL DIVIDENDS. The total payments in New York for this month (April) on account of railroad and miscellaneous interest and dividends, are, says Dun's Review, estimated at $38,000,000, comparing with $35,000,000 one year ago, and $44,000,000 two years ago. The increase is largely due to the resumption of interest payments on Atchison securities.

BANK FAILURES. The suspensions and fallures of banks, bankers and trust companies in 1895 numbered 125, with total assets of $41,833,669 and liabilities of $15,108,010; in 1894, 87, with assets of $40,141,682 and liabilities of $12,805,950; in 1893, 598, with assets of $184,281,014 and liabilities of $170,395,678. This makes 810 failures of this class for the three years, including 199 national banks, 277 State banks, 64 savings banks, 251 private banks and 19 loan and trust companies, with aggregate assets of companies, with aggregate assets of $206,255,715 and liabilities of $198,009,638.

SICILY ORANGES. The season for Sicily oranges is just beginning in the eastern markets and advices are that the season is likely to be a good one with fair prices. The Philadelphia Grocery World, speaking of some sales of these oranges, says: "Sicily oranges have been on the market since December last, but only in small quantities. The regular season is just now beginning, and from this on Sicily oranges will come in in large quantities. There will probably be severel more cargoes direct to this port before the end of the season, which occurs around about July. There will be a good demand for Sicily oranges during the season, and this will be helped by the much smaller supply of oranges than usual. By reason of the Florida fruit being absent from the market, the California oranges have been sent east much earlier than usual, and this greativ reduced the available been sent east much earlier than usual and this greatly reduced the available supply.'

NEW INCORPORATIONS. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the Los Angeles Mining and Stock Exchange, formed for the purpose of encouraging and advancing mining interests generally. The company will endeavor to interest capital for the development and purchase of mines and mining prospects, and in the aid of those who may require financial assistance in developing their own mining prospects. A stock board will be maintained in connection with the exchange, and also a bureau of mining information and a clearing-house. The principal place of business will be Los Angeles. There are nine directors: A. H. Judson, J. A. Fairchild, H. M. Russell, E. K. Alexander, George W. Parsons, P. L. Griffin, Charles Wier, F. C. Garbutt and E. T. Lay. The capital stock is $25,000, divided into 250 membership shares valued at $100 each. No person is entitled to hold more than one share, and no shares will be issued to any person not a member of the corporation. No assessment can be levied on any stock unless by consent in writing of three-fourths of the stockholders. Each of the original incorporators, and the charter members is entitled to a membership share on payment of $10, and when the membership shall have

FIGHTING CALIFORNIA PRUNES The fact that California prunes have practically driven out the French article from United States markets is likely to bring on a conflict between the California and French prune-growers. The latter are seriously alarmed over the situation and have determined.

ers. The latter are seriously alarmed over the situation and have determined, apparently, to put forth the strongest efforts to maintain their position in the markets of this country, and in Europe. Speaking on the matter an eastern trade paper says:

"A few months ago, for the first time, California prunes were exported to Europe. They could be faid down in various European markets at prices which would compare very favorably with the French article, and a good demand for them immediately sprang up, not only in Germany and Great Britain, but even in France itself, the home of the French prune-growers. An organized effort is now being made to drive the California fruit from the ground in Europe it has gained. The first chapter in this has been the reduction of the price of the French prunes to a point which will compare duction of the price of the French prunes to a point which will compare favorably with the American. The consumers of the continent would pre-fer the French prunes, prices being equal, and the reduction in the French equal, and the reduction in the French price will give them the preference. The price has been dropped about 25 per cent. At present the French prunes are selling in Europe at about 4% cents which is less than the California fruit can be laid down for. This refers only to the large sizes. This country has as yet exported no small sizes whatever."

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

THE STEEL INDUSTRY. It is interesting to note the great progress made by the Bessemer steel industry in the United States. The Chattanooga Tradesman has compiled some information on the subject, which will well repay perusal. It says:

"The industry began in this country in 1866 in a very small feeble way. As we now remember (we have no data at hand,) there were converted, in a small concern in Michigan, 3000 tons that year. As we further recollect, some 7000 tons of steel rails were made in the United States in 1867. Then, and for several years succeeding, rails absorbed the whole product here and practically all of it in England. The development of the product was rapid, and the diversification of its uses were no less rapid. In twenty years it had grown to what were then thought immense proportions. The country turned out 2,269,190 gross tons of ingots in 1886. This had reached 3,688,871 tons in 1890, and in 1895 it was 4,909,128 tons, twice the product of nine years ago and nearly 500,000 tons to spare for good measure. The open-hearth steel made in the country last year was round 1,250,000 gross tons. It is quite safe to say that our total product of mild steel of all sorts exceeded 6,000,000 gross tons more than Great Britain ever made."

Plate Glass Jobbing. CHICAGO, April 14.—Every plate-glass jobber in Chicago has received a letter from the plate-glass trust, notifying him the trust had withdrawn the price-list for "stock sheets." The jobbers have been buying glass by the square foot in sheets and weiling it to the trade in cut sizes. The price-list for cut sizes is left in force, but, as the trust will sell to the consumer at the same price it allows the jobber to make, the latter, it is said, will not sell any more glass after the present stocks are exhausted. The managers of the Pittsburgh trust frankly state to the jobbers that they will open up warehouses in a short time in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Minneapolis and perhaps other large cities, as the needs of the trade may demand. The trade of the whole country will be supplied from these depots. Rumors that something of this sort was contemplated were circulated and denied for two months before they were confirmed.

The Paris market is dull. A DEAD CITY OF MANSAS.

A DEAD CITY OF KANSAS.

It was Once the Home of Many Prominent People.

(Kansas City Times:) Three miles south of Atchison is the site of a dead city, whose streets once were filled with the clamor of busy traffic and echoed to the tread of thousands of oxen and mules that in the pioneer days of the great West transported the products of the East across the great American Desert to the Rocky Mountains.

It was a city in which for a few years 2500 men and women and children lived and labored and loved, in which many lofty aspirations were born, and in which several young men began careers that have become historical.

This city was located on what the early French voyagers called the "grand detour" of the Missouri River. It sprang into existence so suddenly and imperceptibly it might almost have been considered a creation of the magician's wand.

It was named Summer, in honor of the cene considered a creation of the magician's wand.

It was named Sumner, in honor of the great Massachusetts Senator. Its official motto was "pro lege et grege" (for the law and the people.)

Sumner's first citizens came mostly from Massachusetts. They had come to the frontier to make Kansas a free State, and to build a city within whose walls all previous conditions of alavery should be disrecgarded, and where all men born should be regarded as equal. The growth of Sumner was phenomenal. A lithograph printed in 1867 shows streets of stately buildings, imposing seats of learning, church spires that pierced the clouds, elegant hotels, ead theaters, the river full of floating palaces, its levee lined with bales and barrels of merchandise, and the white smoke from numerous factories hanging above the city, like a banner of peace and prosperity.

One day the steamboat Duncan S. Carter landed at Sumner. On its hurricane deck was John J. Ingalls, then only 24 years old. As his eye swept the horizon his prophetic soul uttered these words: "Behold the home of the future Senator from Kansas."

Here the young college graduate, who since that day became a Senator from Kansas, lived and dreamed, until Sumner's star had set and Atchison's sun had risen, and then he moved to Atchison, bringing with him Sumner's official seal and the key of his hotel.

Here lived that afterward brilliant-author and journalits, Albert D. Richardson, whose tragic death some years ago in the counting-room of the New York Tribune is well remembered. His "Bayond the Mississippi" is to this day the sum of the counting-room of the New York Tribune is well remembered. RESULT OF ELECTIONS AT ANA-Fulian Berdugo on Trial for the Mur-der of His Cousin, Jose Sepul-veda — Streef-Bailway Motor— Notes and Personals.

SANTA ANA, April II.—(Regular Cor-respondence.) Anaheim and Orange, the two incorporated cities, outside of the county seat, had their municipal-elections Monday of this week. Every-thing passed off quietly in both places, there being no opposition in Anaheim to the Citizens' ticket that was put in nomination by a mass-meeting of cit-

Julian Berdugo is now on trial for the murder of his cousin, José Sepulveda, in this city about two months ago. The murder was committed on South Main street in the early part of a stormy night while Sepulveda was hurrying uptown to attend a dance to which he had been invited. Sugnicion that night com-

POMONA, April 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) The deciduous fruit-growers say it is a little early to make good predictions concerning the crop of apricots, peaches and prunes grown in the Pomona Valley this year, but they believe there will be about two-thirds of a full yield of apricots this year. Every one who has observed the peach trees in this locality lately thinks there will be a heavy crop of this fruit next summer, but there are many horticulturists who have reason to predict a small yield of prunes throughout the Pomona Valley this year.

In the matter of setting out new orchards, this has been the dullest season known in Pomona for eight or nine years. The awful slump in dried fruits has made the people afraid to plant any more prune, peach or spriéct orchards hereabout. Capt MacDonell took a large and enthusiastic party for a delightful trip down the coast of the island as far as Cherry Valley—a beautiful cove situated just below the isthmus on the landward side. Here lunch was enjoyed under the wide-spreading boughs of a equalyptus tree, and beautiful shells were gathered. Reëmbarking in the staunch Fleetwing the party was taken to the lathmus, where another stop was made, and then the yacht coasted leisurely home, giving an opportunity to note the magnificent cliffs and rock formations, Perdition Caves and the remarkable hot-water spring which bubbles up in the sea near these caves. The water at this point is almost at boiling heat. The party included Mr. J.; Miss B. I. Anson of Bloomfield, N. J.; Miss B. I. Anson of Bloomfield, N. J.; Miss M. B. McVay of Yankton, S. D.; J. J. The $2035 that has been paid into the treasury of the city of Pomona by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company as a result of the suit for condemnation of a part of the suit for condemnation of a part of the public park of this place, out at the San José hills, comes mighty handy to the taxpayers here. M. A. Bell was the attorney in the suit, and asked for $5000 damages, but the court took the average of the several sworn statements of a dozen of the citizens of Pomona as to the value of the damage to the park. Of the amount allowed the city, about one-half will probably be paid to P. C. Tonner as the final payment on his mortgage on the property, and the rest will be devoted some time to making the lone-some-looking place somewhat inviting to visitors.

The constant growth of Pomona is once more shown by the unusually large number of pupils who have entered the public schools here this term. Every grade is crowded, and the trustees of this school district are more than ever at their wilts ends to know what to do for additional school room when the new school year will open next September.

Charles Frankish, president and general manager of the Ontario Land and Improvement Company, was here today on business with his old friend and former partner, Mr. McNeil, Mr. Frankish says that during last Thursday's thunder storm, two bolts came into the electric power house, burning off wires and sat fire to a cost belonging to one of the employés. The first thunder-bolt came from directly overhead, while the other struck some miles away and rode in on the wires when it was perfectly clear overhead. Lightning conductors were under the floor, but thinking them useless in this country, they had not been put in place. After the first bolt, the operator concluded to place them and had just adjusted one when the second bolt came and, notwithstanding the fact that much of it was grounded by means of the new conductor, it did more damage in the power house than the former, showing that it was much the heavier charge. Mr. Frankish says they are developing water now in their new tunnel at the rate of an inch every day, at a cost of about 35. They are into the mountain 4500 feet and have 600 feet to go yet before reaching their test well, which is over 300 feet deep and where the drill dropped into a subterranean body of water of tremendous pressure:

TO BREAK A "CINCH."

The article in today's issue of The Times in reference to the monopoly imposed by the Southern Pacific in the matter of wharfage charges has aroused feeling which has been slumbering for some time. One of the plans proposed by which to break the monopoly is to condemn the necessary right-of-way, so as to extend one of the streets to the very water front. By so doing there will be an oppositunity to load boats without being "cinched" in the operation.

(London Telegraph:) Lord Cromer, in his annual report upon the condition of Egypt, says the treasury closed the year with an excess of revenue over expenditure of £1,000,000, the largest yet realized, and with a reserve of £5,000,000, the accumulated savings of the past year."

"The main principle," says Lord Cromer, "upon which the work of reform in Egypt has been based from the beginning may be summed up in a single phrase—European head and Egyptian hands. Our task here is not to rule the Egyptians, but as far as possible to teach the Egyptians to rule themselves. The péace and tranquility of the village population—that is to say, of the great mass of the inhabitants of Egypt—have greatly increased. Village life is no longer to so great an extent troubled by political dissensions, the result generally of some Cairo complication which has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. An interesting proof of the peaceful and contented spirit just now prevailing among the people is found in the fact that the present disturbed condition of other parts of the Turkish empire, and the consequent ill-feeling which has been aroused between the Mohammedan and Christian subjects of the Sultan have produced no serious symptoms of any kind in Egypt."

RAILROAD FRANCHISE.

The City Trustees have had a busy time today (Tuesday,) discussing the Southern Pacific franchise. A number of citizens were present, and presented protests against the granting of the franchise, based upon the supposition that freight trains would be allowed to go south of Second street. The Trustees took the ground that, under the franchise, that would be impossible. George Frost, president of the Board of Trustees, took occasion to set forth his position on the matter. He said he was in favor, not only of granting the Southern Pacific franchise into the heart of the town, but an equally good one to every railroad which seeks to enter the city. He believed that was in the best interest of Riverside. The other trustees expressed similar views.

On the call of the roll the ordinance granting the franchise passed final reading by unanimous vote.

J. W. Johnson resigned as Superintendent of Streets, and C. W. Finch was appointed as successor on a salary of $75 per month.

The board canvassed the election returns, preparatory to the installation of the new officers on Monday next.

A VALUABLE CONCESSION. RIVERSIDE, April 14.—After many weeks' delay the City Council today granted the Southern Pacific Railroad Company a franchise within the city limits, which enables that company to run heavy engines and passenger trains over the old motor line right into the heart of the city. The old franchise of the motor company only permitted the use of small motor engines over the line, but as soon as the Southern Pacific Company bought the motor line a request for a modification of the franchise so as to permit the use of heavy engines was made by the company, with the result above stated. The grant secured by the company today is a valuable one from a business standpoint. RIVERSIDE, April 14.-After many standpoint.

Alverson Commits Suicide.

REDLANDS, April 14.—(Regular Correspondence.) The city this morning was startled to hear that during the night Percy Alverson had committed suicide by shooting himself through the brain while delirious from typhoid fewer. Both Mr. and Mrs. Alverson were brain while delirious from typhoid fever. Both Mr. and Mrs. Alverson were delirious from the fever, and the attendant, being worn out by loss of sleep, dozed for a few moments. Mr. Alverson rose without disturbing the attendant and procured the pistol with which he did the deed. It had been known that he had a pistol and a search had been made for it the day before to remove it for fear of such an act, but it could not be found. In his delirium he had threatened to take his life.

Mr. Alverson was one of the early settlers of Redlands, and was very well known. He was but 29 years old. His wife is still delirious. A baby survives as the only child.

The election of Monday, reported in this column, for the first time gives the anti-saloon people a majority of the Board of Trustees, and there is no doubt that a prohibition ordinance will be one of the first matters brought before the new board. License men took their defeat very gracefully and the general verdict was that they would assist the prohibitionists in a rigid en-

HISTORY OF A FAMOUS POEM. How Mrs. Thorpe Wrote "Curlew Must not Ring Tonight."

Must not Ring Tonight."

(New York World:) Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote the exceedingly popular poem, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," lives in a pretty frame cottage at Pacific Beach, near San Diego, Cal. When asked recently by a representative of the World to tell how she came to write the poem that has made her famous, she replied:

"I cannot remember when I did not sile came to write the poem that has made her famous, she replied:

"I cannot remember when I did not write poetry. I have done so ever since I was a child. My mother did not approve of my writing, in fact, she discouraged it. One day after school I went to my room. I had been studying the historic period of which I was about to write in my poem, and the incident impressed itself so strongly on my mind that I felt impelled to write about it. I was about half way through when my mother came in, sayling a young friend had come to spend the afternoon and take tea with me. In great distress I called out, 'Oh, mother, can't she wait a little while?' My mother, thinking I was solving a hard example in arithmetic, said she would amuse my friend until I could leave. At last I finished it and put it away. Two or three years later I wanted a poem for publication in a Detroit paper, for which I had been in the habit of contributing short poems gratuitously. I was unable at the time to write, as usual, an original poem for the next issue, and on looking over my papers found this one, which I decided to send, though doubting its acceptance, as it was so long. A day or two afterward I received a note from the editor complimenting my last contribution highly and phophesying for it great and immediate success."

I was talking a few days since with an intelligent farmer. He was inclined to complain. He said that with threequarters of the Republicans in favor of McKinley, he could see no assurance that the party leaders, or the men who wished to go to the mational conven-tion, were in sympathy with the popular demand. He thought he saw a dis-position to send to the various conven-tions men who would not commit them-selves for any candidate, and who would thus be left free to follow the leadership of the very bosses against whom the rank and ille of the people are in quiet but emphatic rebellion. He could not see why the opinion of the common people should be so completely

Only yesterday I was in conversation with a prominent Riverside Republican—an office-holder. He said he bad "been talking with Hervey Lindley and other Los Angeles Republicans," and he found that they believed an unpledged delegation should be sent from this State to the national convention, "that they might be able to secure the utmost for California," Of course, the literal translation of that declaration is that the delegation can be used as a medium of exchange, But if I can properly diagnose public sentiment, the people are not favorable to political dickering this year. Judging by the tenor of public senti-ent in Riverside and San Bernarding ment in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, regarding Presidential candidates, I should say that nothing more unfavorable to an overwhelming Republican majority could happen than for the rank and file of the party to be euchered out of their honest desire for the nomination of a particular candidate by men who profess to represent the people, but who, in reality, represent the Southern Pacific Railroad or the Sugar Trust.

Fool Talk of Harrison.

Fool Talk of Harrison.

A special dispatch from New York to the Chicago Inter Ocean says there is every probability that ex-President Harrison will again shine forth as a Presidential possibility. It says: "Gen, Harrison's wedding and the appearance in this city of most of his former Cabinet Ministers, has stimulated talk of the ex-President as a Presidential possibility. The almost universal sentiment among politicians is that his name will be presented early in the convention proceedings at St. Louis, and that if McKinley shows anything like the strength with which his friends seek to endow him, Gen. Harrison's friends will head a stampede that will overwhelm the candidate from Ohio."

Thinks Cleveland Is the Man. The New York World prints an editorial, in which it asks whether the logic of the present political situation that has led the Republicant a support Mo of the present political situation that has led the Republicans to support McKinley will not compel the Democrats to nominate Cleveland. The paper says: "The World does not assert that this is so. It raises the question. It invites public discussion of it. So far as the World is concerned in this matter, it is entirely impartial, judicial and impersonal. It has no special partiality for Mr. Cleveland personally, as he will probably admit. It has nothing to take back. But the question is not of the past. It is a question of the future, upon the issues of the present and the future, not of the past, the World is just as free and sincere in suggesting that Mr. Cleveland seems to be the only logical candidate, as it has been fearless and faithful is admonition and criticism whenever it has believed him to be wrong. It is tidle and might prove veryunwise to ignore the fact that there is a deep-seated and widely prevalent prejudice among our people against any third term for any President. But it is still a question whether any unfounded fear and prejudice can weigh at last against the force of events and the logic of circumstances."

Predict His Defeat.

Predict His Defeat.

A Washington letter to the Chicago Times-Herald says: "It is now becoming generally known that Mr. Cleveland is willing to accept the nomination if the national convention declares for sound-money and is anxious to have him again for the party leader." The letter then says there is a strong belief that the President would have no opposition in the convention, except that which came from the silver men of the West and South, and that, in case the President carried his point, they would boit the convention. "Most of the Democrats about the Capitol," says the letter, "seem to be quite willing to permit Mr. Cleveland to have his way about it, and they say, with sinister mien, that the man who dares to tempt the fates by asking for a third term will not carry a single State in the Union, and will have the conceit taken out of him as no man ever did before."

"Harrison or Allison."

The New York Mail and Express rints a special dispatch from St. ouls, in which Col. H. L. Swords, expenntatarms of the Republican sational Convention, is reported as a synn; "The real fight will be between the convention and Harrison, I think. McKingr will go into the convention with bout one hundred and twenty-five less has a majority, and he will be strongstat the start. He is a popular idol, but popular idols seldom win. The rinner this time will be either Harrison or Allison. Harrison made an allison, Harrison made an allison yesterday (April 6) that will maerially strengthen his chances. He is a young, energetic, ambitious wife, and an influence of that kind is not to be underestimated in such a contest. Indiana will be solid for him, and he will enter the convention with votes from a number of other States.

"Allison will start out with not less than 100 votes. He will get Iowa's twenty-two. The rest will come from California, the Territories, Texas, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and a few other States. He will get at least one New York vote. The delegate has already been elected and has announced his intention of supporting Allison at the convention."

Wise in His Generation

(Boston Advertiser:) Secretary Car-lisle is very shrewd when he announced cautiously that it would be unwise cautiously that it would be unwise to have any Democratic contest over the Presidential nomination while the questions of platform and polley remain to be settled. After the fight over the platform has been settled, if there is any party left, it will be easy enough, as he modestly confesses, to secure a candidate somewhere; but it is manifestly rather unjust to ask a man to be a candidate without any reliable idea as to the principles his party may indorse, and the Secretary is quite right in objecting to such a programme.

Working for Allison. The Iowa State Register prints a dispatch from Washington stating: "Col. Henderson, Senator Gear, Capt. Hull and all of the Iowa men in the national capital are almost confident that Senator Allison will receive the Presidential nomination at St. Louis; and all of them are working faithfully and intelligently to bring about that result."

Is Quay for McKinley? (New York Tribune:) Great interest was shown yesterday in the reports that come from Florida relative to the that come from Florida relative to the presence of Senator Matthew Stanley Quay of Pennsylvania and ex-Senator T. G. Platt in the land of oranges, and the probable effect of a conference between these two men concerning whom they would support in the Republican National Convention at St. Louis. It is said, upon excellent authority, that Senator Quay will support Maj. McKinley, and that while he is South he will tell Mr. Platt so. Mr. Quay, who is an astute politician, has been watching the trend of public sentiment in his own State and over the country generally, the trend of public sentiment in his own State and over the country generally, and he is reported to be convinged that nothing can keep the Ohlo man from getting the nomination. He is said to be satisfied that the fight of the Presi-dential "combine" against McKinley is

The Chicago Inter-Ocean prints a special from Pittsburgh in which Richard Quay, son of Senator Quay, denies the report from Florida that his father was going to retire from the Presidential race in favor of Maj. McKinley. He said: "Any report that declares that father will retire from the Presidential race is untrue. I saw him Saturday last and I know that if he had been considering any such movement he considering any such movement he would have said so. There is nothing in it." The special closes saying: "In other quarters, especially among the McKinley people, who are fighting quay's proposed control of local affairs, the report is believed."

Ingersoll's Prediction A Cleveland special to the Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "Col. Robert G. Ingersoll is of the opinion that McKinley will be nominated by the St. Louis convention. When interviewed on the Presidential outlook today, he said: 'A few months ago I said that McKinley, Reed and Allison would be the real candidates and that Morton had no possible chance. At that time I thought that the chances were in the order named. chance. At that time I thought that the chances were in the order named. Since then McKinley has developed great strength, and it looks as if he will be nominated on one of the early ballots, and I will be surprised if more than one ballot is necessary to make the choice. The others cannot combine against him, because he is the second choice of the Reed, Allison and Morton men."

No Worthier Leader.

(Chicago Chronicle:) Politicians want a passive, solorless, invertebrate man, one who never said a foolish thing and never did a wise one. If politicians such as these compose the national convention of the Democratic party, John G. Carlisle cannot by any possibility be their candidate. If, sink or swim, survive or perish, the Democratic party would stand, four-square to all the winds that blow, it can have no worthier leader in this year of grace,

"When the Break Comes."

"When the Break Comes."

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat:) Platt is understood to desire to throw the New York vote to Reed after Morton drops out, but the McKinley strength in the State is so great that the boss stands a poor chance of holding away from the Ohio man five-sixths or nine-tenths of the delegation which he controls at the beginning of the convention. Apparently a majority of the New York delegates thus far committed to Morton have McKinley for a second choice. When the break comes the bosses who get in the way of the avalanche are crushed.

Approaching a Certainty.

(Holbrook, Ariz., Argus:) Mr. McKinley continues to gain in strength every-where; that he will be nominated is already approaching a certainly if delegates are all that is needed to do it.

Hanna's Answer to the A.P.A.

Hanna's Answer to the A.P.A.

A special telegram from St. Louis to the Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "The A.P.A. has declared war on McKinley. The assertion is made by Judge J. H.D. Stevens, chairman of the National Advisory Board of that organization, that McKinley will be defeated for the nomination if it lies in the power of that body, and he believes that it does. .. It is now known that the board sent letters to the advisers of Allison, Reed, McKinley and Morton, asking them to meet with the board and make clear their positions in relation to the A.P.A. All of them obeyed, except Mark Hanna. They argued the merits of their candidates and were told that a decision would be arrived at later. Hanna not appearing, a second letter was sent him. Instead of Hanna, this brought a hot letter in reply, which stated that McKinley recognized no faction in the Republican party; that he would make no pledges or promises to any secret organization, and would join in no movement not strictly Republican. The A.P.A. at once decided to unite against McKinley and take up Linton."

Hoard for Vice-President.

A telegram from Washington to the Chicago Inter Ocean says: "The friends of ex-Gov. Hoard of Wisconsin have of ex-Gov. Hoard of Wisconsin have started a quiet little boom for him as a candidate for Vice-President, and a number of letters from Republicans in Wisconsin have been received by Reed and Morton men here, suggesting that he would be a good western man to complete the ticket with an eastern man at the head. They discail any purpose of interfering with the McKinley instructions in Wisconsin, but say they are not confident that MoKinley will win and they seek to prepare the way for a combination that will place a man in the second place who will not in any sense be a burden as so often has been the case, but will be a source of strength."

The Difference Between Them.

(Portland, Or., Morning Oregonian.)
The New York World thinks Cleveland will be made the Democratic candidate for President by the same logic which will make McKinley the Republican candidate. But McKinley will be nominated because he is the most popular man in his party. Does the World think that is true of Mr. Cleveland?

A Foregone Conclusion

York Tribune:) Joseph declaration that McKin Choates declaration that McKinley's selection seems almost a foregone conclusion, because he stands for protection and the independence of America, leads the Poughkeepsie Star to say tha protection is the issue, and that every American workingman and farmer should insist upon this being the issue, and "any political boss that gets in the way should be snowed under."

Ontario's Candidate.

ONTARIO, April 14.—(Special Correspondence.) Col. J. L. Paul of Ontario has been announced as a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention in St. Louis. He will have a strong local backing, and the expects to secure the recommendation of the county convention. The colonel is no novice in national politics, having been a delegate in the conventions of 1888, 1872 and 1880 from Pennsylvania. In the latter convention he followed the leadership of Conkling, and went down with the immemorial 306 who fought for the nomination of the hero of Appomatox. Should Col. Paul to go St. Louis he will be arrayed on the side of Maj. McKinley.

San Diego Candidates. San Diego Candidates.

SAN DIEGO, April 14.—(Special Correspondence.) The Sixth Ward caucus on Monday night to select candidates for today's primaries, adopted resolutions holding it to be the sense of the caucus that all delegates elected should vote for delegates to the national and Congressional conventions, who are pledged for McKinley and Bowers.

Sheldon and Lindley.

(Ventura Free Press.) The Free Press is opposed to the nomination of Lionel A. Sheldon as delegate-at-large, and Hervey Lindley as district delegate to the St. Louis convention, for ye following reasons:

First—Lionel A. Sheldon is a known friend of Collis P. Huntington.
Second—Lionel A. Sheldon is a chronic office-seeker, now in his last political ditch, willing to sacrifice any and everything to advance his personal political interest.

Parker's Political Pedigree

Parker's Political Pedigree.

(Ventura Free Press:) W. F. X. Parker, clerk to Mayor Rader of Los Angeles, has distinguished himself by "influencing" six members of the City Council (only two.—Ed Times.) to vote for a resolution indorsing Huntington's double-harbor scheme. In 1892 Parker acted as secretary of the County Central Committee, by request of Hervey Lindley, and managed the primary election, through which the nomination in this Congress district was "stolen" and delivered to his boss (who was beaten by over 6000 majority in a Republican district.—Ed. Times.) Mr. Parker has been one of Mr. Lindley's confidential agents in matters political for six years. He is the same Mr. Parker, who, with others of like political methods, are said to be endeavoring to secure a new charter for the division of the Third Ward Council. A.P.A. This council is composed of over 700 of the leading business men in Los Angeles, the majority of whom are opposed to Mr. Lindley, and his man Friday, Mr. Parker. The assertion was made recently by a man on the inside that the division in the Third Ward Council could be secured through the influence of one Llonel A. Sheldon. The question is, will the Sixth Congress district bow down to Mr. Lindley and his merry men who do politics? Can the Republican party afford to accept the leadership of these men? The Free Press inclines to the belief that it will be political suicide to do so.

The Ventura Free Press advances seven strong reasons for the selection of U. S. Grant, Jr., as one of the delegates-at-large from California to the National Republican Convention. They

"First—His name is synonymous with honesty of purpose, in its fullest sense. "Second—He is the living representative of that great captain whose page in the history of the United States is the admiration of the world.

(Kingman, Ariz., Miner:) While we are perfectly willing that mining companies, to operate in this county, should be formed under the laws of Arisona, we are unwilling that they should be allowed to work off fake schemes on the public. We have too many mines of merit to allow the whole county to get a black eye that a few people may be benefited. Hereafter, when fake mining shares are put on the market the Miner gives fair warning that the promoters will be exposed.

DOCTOR JOHNSON ONCE SAID:

"The man who both spends and saves money is the happiest man, because he has both employments," he must have had in mind the buying of his clothing at "The London," for every man who buys suit here saves money when he spends it.

Nobby Blue or Black Cheviot Sack Suits, just the right thing for business wear or travel, all the fit and style a tailor can give, and only $12 the suit.

Men's Sack or Frock Suits, made of fine English Clay Worsted, a business suit for business men, at a business price, at $12.50.

At $15 there are those broken checks in browns and grays, precisely like the made-to-order $25 and $30 suits, but the tailor can stand it as long as you can.

MR. JAMES L. BANKS.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.

I just reached Santa Barbara, and I am glad of it, for really it is one of the best little towns in California, and the people are all praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, so that puts me in good humor. The gentleman whose portrait I send you is of a retiring disposition and seldom allows newspaper men to interview him. It was my great good fortune to speak to Mr. Banks when he was telling a friend how much good the native sarsaparilla had done him.

He told me that for several mont's past he had suffered from boils and an impoverished condition of the blood. Did not understand why this should be, as he takes much care of his health and is regular and methodical. "However," said he, "I have used Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and I believe it is the best sarsaparilla that I have ever used. I have used several other sarsaparillas different times, and I will not say that they are no good, but I will say that none of these sarsaparillas compare with Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Yes, it is true, that the new idea of manufacturing sarsaparilla is the better idea. It used to be the proper thing to to emulsity iodide of potassium with sarsaparilla. Of course, solide of potassium is a mineral drug that irritates the stomach, and I know it. I know it from experience. I know that using the sarsaparilla with iodide of potassium brings out pimples and boils upon the face. I know that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla contains no iodide of potassium, contains no mineral drugs, because I used it. It did not irritate my stomach, it brought no pimples ou my face, it purified the blood and instantly dried up the eruptions that were on my body.

on my body.

"I do not usually speak for publication, but any man would do as I am doing now—recommend that which he knows to be good. I don't think that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla would mend a broken leg, or grow hair on a man's head, but verily I do believe that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will put the stomach and bowels in such good order and the blood in so pure a condition that the man of ordinary constitution will certainly feel health and life in every nerve and fiber of the body."

of ordinary constitution will certainly feel health and life in every herve and fiber of the body."

I spoke to all the druggists in Santa Barbara and they reported wonderful sales for Joy's Sarsaparilla. None of the druggists are substituting "something just as good" for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Santa Barbara is a small place compared to San Francisco, and if the druggists resorted to cheap methods every one in Santa Barbara would know it, and they would keep away from the substitutor. I am told that the substituting druggists in San Francisco are having a pretty hard time of it. People go into a drugstore now and ask for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and say that they want it for some one else, so that now there is no more talk about "something just as good." HENRY TILLMAN.
